Balangiga bells to arrive Saturday

JOEY A. GABIETA

BALANGIGA, Eastern Samar- This town is in a frenzy as finally the bells taken away from their Church's fry will be repatriated back to them.

Workers are sprucing the town's plaza where a program for the turnover of the iconic Balangiga Bells is scheduled on Saturday (December 15).

The construction of the concrete stands where these three weighty bells are to be temporarily placed inside a small garden of the St. Lawrence The Martyr Parish are now finished.

To say that the town people are excited for the return of the bells-117 after these were forcibly removed by the American soldiers- is an understatement.

For Constanca Calesterio,62, the coming of the bells is like a realization on the stories surrounding on the removal of the artifacts as told by her late father when she was a child.

"He narrated the story why the bells were taken from our church belfry before we go to sleep at night. Now that these bells are to be returned to us, we are really, really excited. No words actually could describe how we feel right now," Calesterio, who help write the script during the reenactment of the incident every September 28, said.

Calesterio's father, Felipe (who died in 2013) was the son of Tomasa Abanador Campanero, niece of Captain Valeriano Abanador who led the attack to an American detachment on September 28,1901.

She also said that based TACLOBAN CITY- The Remedios T. Romualdez Medical Foundation (RTRMF), based this city, has produced three of this year's top 10 of the Nursing Licensure Examination conducted November of last year.

They were Kathryn Angelie Bugho who ranked number 2 with a passing rate of 86.80; Angelae Priscilla Cahilig who placed number 7(85.40); and Arianne Grapilon who landed at number 9 with a passing rate of 85.0.

The school's 25 takers all passed the examinations.

Bugho,21, said that she was in utter shock when she learned on the results showing her landing at number two in last year's Nursing examination.

"I am in total shock as I did not expect it," she said.

She said that all she wanted is to see all of them passing the examinations.

About 4,811 out of the 12,033 examinees passed the state-sponsored examination held in Tacloban City and other cities in the country on Nov.17 and 18.

The topnotcher, who was crowned last year as Miss RTRMF, said that she learned that she was ranked number

Tacloban young cancer warriors receive early Christmas gifts from various groups

TACLOBAN CITY-At least 39 children with cancer together with their siblings and families received their early Christmas gifts from various groups on Sunday (December 9).

The event was led by the Tingog Sinirangan party-list and joined by Philippine Toy Library, thanked Sirakwaraynon Eagles Club, Tacloban City Eagles Club, Lions International, Share Your Spare Singapore, Tacloban City Sangguniang Kabataan Federation president Thomas Diaz, and other individuals who collaborated with them for the event.

"This is our fourth party with them since April 2017. We give them two parties every year--the Summer Fun and Christmas Party," said Bunny Culibar-Celebrado, the youth chairperson of Tin-gog Sinirangan party-list.

"We also give gifts to the siblings because we don't want them to feel like they're left behind. We understand that parents usually poured most of their time to their child who is a patient," Celebrado added.

During the party, dubbed as "Winter Wonderland Christmas," the children were entertained by magicians and showered with toys, gifts, balloon twist, and a bubble show.

Some children also performed special numbers for their parents and visitors. Also present were cancer-free children and the families and siblings of patients who already passed away.

"This is our thanksgiving program. We want our children to be always happy and remain positive," said Irene Sudario, a parent.

The 39 young cancer warriors are under Dr. Joy Tobio of the Pediatric Oncology Ward at the Eastern Visayas Regional Medical Center.

She also thanked the Kids of the Kingdom Region 8, a pediatric cancer and chronic illness support group in the city.

"We provide support group where children and their families are drawn close to God and get to know the promise of His words. Cancer steals, kills and destroys. But Jesus has come to give life and have it to the full," it said.

According to the group, they provide a "safe haven for children fighting for chronic illness such as cancer."

A welcome move

To most people in the yet economically backward province of Samar, Ombudsman's recent issuance of suspension orders to selected local executives is a welcome move, in fact long overdue, as the province had for years been infested by allegedly corrupt political leaderships that had deprived it of economic development.

As a result of this alleged massive and prolonged irregularities in the past, the province remains to be one of the country's poorest, the majority of people hardly making it, if not at all, as they try to function normally in society. They suffer the worst ill-effects of extant graft practices. They have the worst, if not non-functional basic services, the reason being that the supposed budgets for those operations are accordingly siphoned into the pockets of certain individuals.

The province cannot afford to be forever at the mercy, and within the manipulative control, of corrupt politicians who, in a cyclical process, are eternally lodged in power by vote-buying schemes involving huge amounts of cash. Most voters, being poor, are eager to sell their votes during elections, thus falling into the traps of vote-buying politicians in the area. But as soon as the latter assume office, networks of corruption eventually follow, leaving behind an impoverished province.

Now that the Ombudsman is at work, the people could only hope that more anomalies would be uncovered for the improvement of government services; and so that the people would get to know the culprits behind; and to at least warn the abusers of the people's taxes that corruption does not pay; that cheaters and dishonest leaders are a disgrace to the country; that irregularities in the face of hi-tech living are easily spotted nowadays; that there are more honest leaders who deserve to be in those positions.

Enough of endless corruption that had been hampering Samar's supposed development. This, in a way, is one implication that can be inferred from the said suspension orders from the Ombudsman. It's not just a welcome move, it's also mandatory in places where corruption is said to be deeply rooted.

Eating season

Coming our way soon are Christmas and New Year—the twin celebrations held in a row during both of which people prepare abundant and sumptuous foods on their tables just to greet these two events. It is then during this time that people could eat to their heart's content, end up in the hospital, or even die of gluttony if moderation is not observed.

Since not all foods are good for one's health as some could even ruin it, people with particular diseases and are disallowed to eat certain foods should guard themselves against those. They should not give in to the lure of delicious foods whose intake would just bring them harm than good. They should avoid them as much as possible or else they might impair their health and drain their pockets with hospital bills.

For sure, the holiday season should be for one's enjoyment and relaxation together with friends and loved ones.

But if one is not careful enough, the food-laden festivities could trigger some illness attacks. Foods with high cholesterol content, or uric acid, or sugar, etc., can aggravate existing ailments that, if not cured right away, can threaten one's life. What's the use of celebrating the occasions when one would just end up sick in bed as a result?

How unwise it is, and what a waste, when money is unnecessarily spent on something that results from carelessness. When you know see Eating /page 8 ...

Chel Diokno

People who belong to my generation, the dual citizens of this country can never forget Jose W. Diokno, the respected Senator and freedom fighter who was incarnated during the Martial Law period together with Ninoy Aquino, Nene Pimentel, Soc Rodrigo, Lorenzo Tañada and other leading opposition figures. But the millennials do not remember him anymore. That is the problem of his son, Jose Manuel “Chel” Diokno who is running for Senator this coming May 2019 elections.

Chel Diokno is running as a nominee of the Liberal Party under the opposition coalition. He is a human rights lawyer who believes that the Senate remains an institution that can serve as a bastion for democracy and he will push for judicial reforms should he become part of the Senate. Diokno, who came from a family that fought for the country’s freedom from tyranny, said he did not aspire to be a politician but silence is no longer an option for those who do not want dictatorship to return. Diokno is De La Salle University College of Law founding Dean.

What really matters

WE cannot deny that all throughout our life, we will always have to contend with differences and conflicts among ourselves. Our unity is not meant to be a uniformity. And if we know how to play our game well, so to speak, we would also know how to make use of our differences and conflicts to strengthen, not weaken, our unity. Our differences and conflicts can actually work for our unity, not division.

The secret is always to live the virtue of charity. That is what really matters in life. As St. Paul said, charity “bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. Love never fails.” (1 Cor 13,7-8) This is what brings us to heaven, in spite of our differences and conflicts.

It’s a pity that in our differences and conflicts we end up eaten up by anger, if not by hatred and all other forms of negativism—irony, sarcasm, bitterness, resentment, etc.

There are issues in life that can trigger not only different views, but also conflicting positions. And it would just be okay if we end up disagreeing with each other, regarding our differences as irreconcilable. We are not expected anyway to agree with each other on everything in life. But what is not okay is when we fall out of love for each other.

This does not mean that there are no right and wrong in our different and conflicting views, or that all positions hold the same value. Besides, most times we really would not know who or

He said the justice system should be reformed to ensure that the rights of every individual are protected and to promote social justice. If there is a crime, there has to be punishment, rich or poor.

While the Supreme Court issued a circular to speed up the justice system, Diokno said such measure could not be implemented due to lack of prosecutors and judges to handle the cases. How can justice work if there are no people?

The weakness of the judicial system, is the root of many evils in this country. Just look at the recent developments today in our judicial system, the lady justice is not anymore blind.

Let us support Jose Manuel “Chel” Diokno. His advocacy is to make justice work. He is pitching himself as the “voice of justice.” Rich or poor, there must be accountability and the certainty of punishment for anyone who breaks the law.

Chel Diokno earned his Philosophy degree from the University of the Philippines (UP) and a Juris Doctor of Laws from Illineous University College of Law when he graduated Magna Cum Laude.

what is right and wrong, what is better or worse, in a particular issue. Whatever the case, we should try our best that we do not fail to live charity among ourselves.

Nowadays, there are issues that are considered hot, controversial, divisive. They usually are political in nature, or they can be social, as in the case of gender, or cultural, as in the case of the difference between nationalism and patriotism.

They can be matters of science, as in the question of global warming and climate change. They can even be issues about faith and religion.

Of course, each one of us has the right to express his view as forcefully as possible. It is just hoped that the forcefulness does not undermine the virtue of charity. We should try to learn how to be forceful and charitable at the same time in our discussions of issues. This is possible and it is imperative that we manage to learn to blend them.

We need to continually ask and check our-

Payao - A key to bountiful fish catch

Historically, Payao, an inexpensive deep sea-fish aggregating/attracting device, have been mentioned in older literature about Philippine Fisheries, having been introduced a long time ago.

What then is Payao and how does a fisherman construct one? Modern day payao is a far cry from what it was before, material-wise, from predominantly light native materials such as bamboo poles and to it were tied coconut fronds (palwa) and made steady by tying the structure to a long bamboo pole driven to the bottom of a shallower fishing area. The purpose of the structure was plainly to serve as artificial fish shed. The present version, is a product of research like the ones popularized in Pangasinan coastal towns. Recently, re-introduced to the pangasinense fisherfolks, it is made of big plastic drums that serve as floaters where big ropes are tied to them and a cemented anchor is dropped to the coastal water to make them steady in a specific municipal water area. It has several coconut fronds tied on big ropes acting as host for microalgae where these organisms grow naturally, serving as initial natural feed (in the food chain) for small fish, which in return attract and are eaten by bigger fish species swimming around the payaos. Microalgae are microscopic single/once-celled protein-rich plant that proliferate in tropical waters of the Indo-Pacific, explaining for the presence of biodiverse species of both commercial and non-commercial algae-feeding fish species. These aggregating devices are normally positioned in municipal waters away from protected areas and fish sanctuaries. And, they do not have to go far into deeper fishing grounds to catch fish for their livelihood.

Pangasinan fisherfolks have found their fish catch increase and livelihood improved at low capitalization owing to the introduction of payao and their adoption of this inexpensive fishing device.

Payao, being a simple and non-capital intensive, needing no oil to operate fish aggregating device, this could be introduced in Eastern Visayas - therefore, strongly suggested in the shallow waters of Leyte Gulf. DA-BFAR 8 should re-introduce and spearhead in the popularization of payao among our lowly shallow water eastern Bisayan fishermen, instead of ‘giving away’ fishing/pump boats that would need oil to operate. With the reported low fish catch in the visayan waters that triggers high prices, payao fishery is the answer to this woe!

selves if indeed charity is always lived when we happen to go through our differences and conflicts. In fact, the ideal is that the more different and conflictive we are among ourselves in our views and positions, the more charitable we ought to be with each other. Yes, our differences and conflicts can occasion greater charity, as they should. They are not meant to be destroyers of charity.

We have to learn how to hold our horses when we feel provoked. Of course, we should try our best that in defending our respective positions, we avoid provoking others. This means that we have to try our best to know the other parties as personally as possible, so we would have an idea of how they would react to our interventions.

We have to be quick to understand others, to offer forgiveness when they commit a mistake or may happen to offend us. We should also be quick to ask for forgiveness when we are the ones who commit a mistake. And even in our most bitter conflicts, we should try to avoid inappropriate words.

In the end, we have to realize that to be able to be charitable all the time, we need to be vitally united with God who is love himself, the source, pattern and power of charity.

Gov.Petilla says he is committed to uplift living conditions of Leyte's farmers

TACLOBAN CITY- Leyte Governor Leopoldo Dominico Petilla said that he is bent in pushing his agriculture-related programs as a way to combat poverty incidence in the remote villages.

Petilla said that he is so serious on this mission that he already made 'experiments' in 2011 when he was not yet a governor.

Petilla was first elected as governor of the province in 2013 and is now seeking for another term in next year's elections.

His agriculture-related programs are anchored on his program known as 'More Income in the Countryside' wherein, among other things, high-value production on vegetables are being promoted.

The governor said that he is committed to improving the economic conditions of the farmers in the province reason he's been encouraging them to form into groups for them to easily access funds and assistance his administration could provide to them.

"Farming is not glamorous and profitable (job). If you are a son of a farmer, will you follow their footsteps? Certainly not but we are doing our best to make it profitable for them so that their children will also become farmers," Petilla said.

Petilla led in the giving recognition to more than 40 farmers' organizations in the province on Dec.4 for their achievements that resulted to better economic condition of their respective members and villages.

According to the governor, since he assumed office, about 210 farmers' associations have been organized all over the province which resulted to improved economic living conditions of these farmers.

These farmers' organizations represent conservatively about 15,000 families.

"By just looking to the condition of these people now, I think there is now an improvement on their respective lives. Hope we can sustain it," Petilla said.

He added that because of the organization of farmers' groups, malnutrition problem in the remote barangays in the province have been addressed and in fact, shown a decline.

He added that there were even barangays that have registered zero malnutrition incidence.

Petilla added that if all the 250 targeted barangays under the MIC program will be realized, he expect the poverty incidence of Leyte to decline.

Based on the report of the Philippine Statistics Authority (NSA), the poverty incidence of Leyte in 2015 stood at 46.7 percent.

The high poverty incidence was blamed to the negative impacts brought by the onslaught of super typhoon 'Yolanda' that pummeled Leyte in 2013.

PNP-8 receives equipment worth P57 million to help boost its internal operations

CAMP RUPERTO KANGLEON, PALO, Leyte – Equipment and facilities needed to help boost the police force in the region on their campaign on internal security operations and crime investigations were formally turned over on Monday (December 10).

The P57 million worth of equipment and kits are to be used to the various police provincial mobile force battalions and provincial police offices of the Philippine National Police (PNP) here in the region.

Chief Supt. Angelito Casimiro, PNP director for logistics, said that the equipment is part of the 2017 capability enhancement program of the police organization.

"Our capability enhancement program started in 2008 wherein P2 billion was allotted for each year but when President Rodrigo Duterte assumed his position, it was the first time that P9 billion was given to the PNP," he shared.

Nine battalions received a total of 36 thermal imagers and 105 GPS (global positioning system) gadgets.

Also, 155 field investigators crime scene kits were given to 8 police provincial offices in Region 8.

Casimiro said that they aim to equip each personnel to have at least one pistol and a rifle by 2020.

"We must provide our police with decent patrol car because that would radiate to the community. If we want our police to be respected, we must provide them with the decent patrol car, with a decent investigation kit, with the decent equipment, and with a decent training.

Casimiro is also hopeful that in line with new equipment, the reorganization, modernization and internal cleansing of the PNP organization will be realized before Pres. Duterte's term ends in 2022.

He said that it is during the administration of Pres. Duterte that the PNP received so much support.

Distressing depression

(ALJUN A. DESOYO)

Suicide attempts... sudden deaths...

Depression is the most widespread mental illness in today's society. Studies have found that, 1 out of 8 teens are affected with this disease. It also predominantly affects young ladies than it does males.

Peer pressure, significant transition in life where they try to identify themselves and figure out where they puzzle piece fits in society where behavioral and emotional changes take place is not just a façade created by emotional individuals.

It is an agonizing pain that is sometimes hard to explain, which lasts for months and sometimes years. Although it may stand as an emotional state, it progresses to a more complex dilemma and begins to affect a person, than the family and everyone around him.

In today's teenagers with the ever changing world around them, a lot may cause chronic depression- a mere post in a Facebook or Instagram may trigger it.

This may often goes by unnoticed and untreated. This ranges from mild feelings of uneasiness, sadness, and apathy to intense suicidal despair.

For some, their depression could be bad enough where it is hard for them to get out of bed to go to school or work. Some may get themselves into trouble more often.

Depression can also make them isolate themselves from other students, teachers, or colleagues. Two of the more common symptoms of depression are lack of focus, an inability to concentrate for extended periods of time.

Other causes of depression could be problems in their personal life such as breakup or fights with friends.

The maximum amount of mental, physical, and emotional distress one can experience can vary from person to person.

This impacts connections not only in the political or business world, but their personal lives and growth as well.

Be warned. People constantly overlooked the severity of depression more importantly, major teen depression which results a legitimate obstacles in the society.

This intensifies results from society's general lack of acknowledgment of the rising affair.

We may need to control the rise of population but this is not an intelligent way to choose from suicide attempts... sudden deaths...be warned!

two through Facebook as she received several private messages coming from her friends and classmates.

Bugho, who is the eldest with two younger brothers and whose family hails from Burauen, Leyte, said that it's been her ambition to become a nurse.

Asked what's her immediate plan now after passing the licensure with flying colors, Bugho just giggled saying her high ranking has yet to sink in.

She, however, insisted that she want to work as a professional nurse as it has been her ambition to become a nurse.

Dean Socorro Salvacion

Gasco said that she was extremely overwhelmed with the performance of her students.

She said that she was really rooting for Bugho to really take the number one slot.

"I really believed in her. I prayed for her that she would land as number one," she said.

Bugho finished at the top of her class as she received an excellence academic award.

Gasco said that the school management has yet to decide how much Bugho will be receiving as an incentive for landing number two in the examination.

Those who passed the nursing examination from the school and land at number receive P100,000.

In 2015, the school produced that year's number one for Nursing licensure exam in Alssya Claire Almo.

Gasco and the eight teachers of the RTRMF are sure to travel as part of the school's incentive.

Pagcor donates computers, TV sets to Leyte school

PALO, Leyte- The Palo National High School, this town, is the latest recipient of the “Handog Computer” program of President Rodrigo Duterte through the Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corporation (Pagcor).

On Friday (December 7), Pagcor, along with Palo Mayor Remedios Petilla, distributed 25 desktop computers and 10 32-inch LED televisions to the school.

“This is a big help for you to get an excellent education. Make the most out of these computers and be inspired in your studies,” Petilla told the students.

“It’s a blessing. After the 2013 super typhoon Yolanda we received six classrooms from Pagcor, and now they’re back for more assistance to us,” added Estrellita Morano, the school principal.

Morano reiterated her gratitude to Petilla, who was also the former Pagcor vice-president during the administration of then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo.

“It was Mayor Petilla who endorsed the request of our school through the initiative of our two teachers Belen Manasis and Cynthia Agner in 2017,” Morano added.

Rico Acuña, Pagcor’s senior community development and welfare officer, urged the school to use the computers and ensure its care for the next batches of students.

“We’re thankful to Pagcor. This is a big help to our studies,” said 15-year old student Jasper Buntog.

Douglas Macalalag, the president of the General Parents-Teachers Association, called the arrival of the computers as “a blessing.”

“We promise to take good care of these computers,” Macalalag told the Pagcor official.

Considered a “mega-school” in Leyte Division, Palo National High School has 4, 274 students and 144 teachers as of its current school year.

47 Tacloban city gov’t workers undergo random drug testing

TACLOBAN CITY- Some 47 city government workers have undergone an unannounced random drug testing on Monday, December 10.

This is the second time that the city government has initiated a drug test this year. Last October, 49 employees were randomly subjected to drug testing but none tested positive.

The random drug testing is part of the hardline stance of the city government under the leadership of Mayor Cristina G. Romualdez Romualdez on illegal drugs.

The New Beginnings Drug Rehabilitation Program of the local government unit spearheaded the drug testing activity in partnership with the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency and the Department of Interior and Local Government.

Workers who will be tested positive in the random drug test and during the confirmatory test will likely be terminated from work but the city government has assured that due process will be followed.

Manolo Rojas, DPWH-ESDEO district engineer, said in a press statement that the maintenance personnel of his district have completely cleared the road networks along the 23 towns this province with major roadblocks, obstacles and debris in both sides of the national highways.

“DPWH guarantees the public that we are always ready to make a prompt response to any calamity. We have deployed maintenance personnel to several areas of Eastern Samar to ensure that all roads will be passable immediately when a calamity like this arises,” Rojas said.

chid Award while three government hospitals namely: Allen District Hospital, Northern Samar Provincial Hospital and Tacloban City Hospital also received the same award.

The local government units who received the Red Orchid Award were the towns of Limasawa, Padre Burgos, San Antonio, San Francisco and Silago, all in Southern Leyte; Arteche, Eastern Samar and Ormoc City.

The regional offices of the PhilHealth and Civil Service Commission 8 were recognized as hall of famers for government offices. The Northern Samar Provincial Capitol was conferred with a Pink Orchid Award.

Arteche Mayor Roland Evardone was grateful that they were the first and only municipality in Eastern Samar that was recognized by the DOH as a 100-percent implementer of the anti-smoking ordinance.

“It’s a collaborative effort that will not happen if not for the support of our community. It took us over a year to educate the people by making them feel the urgency and letting your vision be the vision of the whole community,” Evardone shared.

He added that selling of tobacco products in their town is also prohibited. They also do not have smoking areas and smoking is totally prohibited except inside their houses.

“This is for the future of our children and the generations to come. It’s been my vision that the culture of cigarette smoking in our town will end in five to ten years,” he noted.

DOH 8 Regional Director Minerva Molon urged other local governments to support them in making Eastern Visayas the home of the healthiest people.

“Let this serve as an inspiration and reminder to all who are here to continue working for the betterment of the community and its members. Our health indicators in Region 8 are still way below the national target. There are still unmet targets which affect the scenario of every community,” she said.

Eating...

that you ought not to touch a certain food or drink per doctor’s advice yet you still touch it, it is sheer stubbornness; and if you have to spend money for medication because of that, then that’s your fault because, in the first place, it could have been avoided. At least, warning has been given; you just ignored it.

When these twin celebration then come our way, better heed the advice of medical experts regarding what not to eat. Failure to take this into account could mean suffering instead of enjoyment. It pays to guard your health, and your wealth.

As early as now, in fact, when Christmas parties are happening left and right, people are already lured to delicious foods served sumptuously on tables. Plenty of uric acid, sugar, fats, cholesterol, and many more are on display. Unless one has self-discipline enough, these cuisines are potentially enticing, drawing people’s tongues to tasting sprees. But instead of nourishing our health, some foods that we like the most had become rather injurious. The least that we could have as a result of devouring all these is a bloated belly, an added weight, and things like these.

Welcome to this holiday season, again the time when foods are just a party away. It’s the season of the year when people eat a lot, drink a lot, and make merry. Just be careful with what you taste, because once it tastes good, you will end up eating even if it is disallowed to you for health reasons. Happy holidays.

NMP holds earthquake and tsunami drill

In a bid to elevate public awareness on how to respond in the wake of any emergency situations caused by natural calamities, such as earthquake and tsunami, the National Maritime Polytechnic (NMP) in partnership with the City Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Office (CDRRMO) of Tacloban City conducted an earthquake and tsunami drill participated by NMP trainees and employees on November 5, 2018 at the NMP Complex, Tacloban City.

The activity was held pursuant to the directive from the National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council (NDRRMC) relative to the conduct of CY 2018 4th Quarter Nationwide Simultaneous Earthquake Drill (NSED) and Observance of World Tsunami Awareness Day on 05 November 2018.

First Aide, an NMP trainee.

The drill started at around 10 AM with a one-minute siren which was meant to inform everyone inside the NMP premises that an earthquake has just occurred. All NMP trainees, employees, and guests do the “duck, cover and hold on.”

In an interval of 10 seconds, another one-minute siren was heard, a signal for everyone within the vicinity to evacuate the building and proceed to the designated mustering stations wherein a marshal will do the head count.

One “scenario casualty” was reported needing immediate medical attention. Using the NMP emergency vehicle, the search and rescue team was dispatched and was able to bring the casualty to a safe area where a cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) was executed by the assigned

First Aide, an NMP trainee.

After the casualty was revived, the third siren was alarmed for one minute in anticipation for an after-shock, tsunami.

Everyone was advised to proceed to the second floor of the NMP Administration Building having a higher elevation compared to other buildings in the area.

The exercise was terminated after the communication was established to the different responders identified by the team.

“This will help us prepare ourselves when a tsunami or an earthquake hits Tacloban City,” Mr. Eduardo V. Polo, Training Officer of Tacloban City CDRMO said.

“It is our responsibility to ensure that everyone are aware and knowledgeable of the things that should be done in cases of emergencies,” he added.(PR)

On screen reading:An evolution

(CLAIRE C. MALALUAN)

Newspapers... novels... magazines... books...

Reading on paper is outdated. The 21st century is a time of change nowadays where people read and go. Reading has changed yet it is important in society though have shown a decline due to the digital era, where the capability to read digitally there have been benefits, but also some obstacles.

I learned to read at an early age. I read widely whilst at school, both school reading schemes and then from the school's library books, as well as books at home and borrowed from friends.

This love of books continues today. I studied English and teach and still read for pleasure whenever possible.

I even have a small project done by the Grade 9 students under my close supervision called, “The Wonderful Journey of the Big Book Project”, (you can visit our Facebook page under Arts and Humanities website) where we try to ignite the old flame innate to us the enthusiasm to read... the best substitute for travel.

It is not possible to travel as much as one would like to and reading can fill in the gap created by the lack of it.

Reading is a unique dimension of human inquiry. It allows ways of thinking that no other type of media can- whether read in a Kindle or other eReader device or in print format.

Reading encourages the development of the imagination in both children and adults. It grows upon one. It gives before demanding and it soothes and relieves tension and loneliness.

A person who is widely read is able to mix with others; she is a better conversationalist than those who do not read. She can stand her ground and broadens her vision.

The only kind of reading which neither stimulates thought nor provides knowledge is one which is approached negatively with the simple motive of escape and of “killing time”.

If a reader only reads “Facebook status in the net of someone who poses and posts three to five times a day with a negative shout out for the public consumption, she is NO better conversationalist and WON'T be able to see the other point of view from afar.

If ever you decide to read- on print or on screen?

Balangiga...

on the accounts of her father, the sound of the bells was so strong that these could be heard all over Balangiga and neighboring towns.

The bells were used to signal their attack which resulted to the death of 54 American soldiers and 18 others were wounded.

An outraged American Gen. Jacob Smith deployed 180 soldiers on Sept. 29, 1901 and ordered them to turn the town into a “howling wilderness” where every Filipino male, at least 11 years old and capable of carrying firearms, was killed while communities were burned down.

The three bells are scheduled to be repatriated to the Philippines Tuesday (December 11) after 117 years displayed at FE Warren Air Base in Wyoming, USA.

Then, the artifacts are to be returned to this town on Saturday (Dec. 15), the start of the ‘Misa de Gallo’ ushering the nine-day countdown before Christmas Day on Dec.25.

Fittingly, the people of Balangiga calls the return of the three bells-one is in South Korea- as their ‘greatest Christmas gift’ ever.

Fe ‘Joy’ Campanero, town’s information and tourism officer, said that they have already laid a program which will start in the morning on Dec. 15.

She said that there will be some merry-making activities like street parade and showcase of local talents.

These activities will be done to ‘set the festive mood’ on the return of the bells, Campanero said.

And in the afternoon, President Rodrigo Duterte, to be joined by Defense Sec. Delfin Lorenzana and Foreign Affairs Sec. Teodoro Locsin Jr., will turn over the bells to the St. Lawrence The Martyr Parish to be accepted by its parish priest, Serafin Tybaco, Jr. in a simple ceremony.

Flowers will be drop from helicopters and the bells, after over a century, will be ringed simultaneously together with the current bells at the Church’s belfry.

The singing of the National Anthem will be done by a chorale group to be brought by the Department of National Defense.

Fr. Tybaco said that turnover will be followed by a Mass to be presided by Bishop Crispin Varquez of the Borongan Diocese.

Bishop Varquez will be joined by his immediate predecessor, Bishop Leonardo Medroso, who in his time joined in the call for the return of the bells, and Bishop Rex Ramirez, a native of the town but is now the bishop of Naval Diocese.

Campanero said that it is not yet certain where the bells-each approximately weighing 300 kilograms-will be arriving.

She said that the bells, loaded in a government-owned plane, may be downloaded at the Daniel Z. Romualdez Airport in Tacloban City or in an airport made by the Americans during the World War II in Guiuan town, also in Eastern Samar.

Tacloban City is about two hours of land travel to this town while it will take only an hour from Guiuan to reach this town.

The three historic bells are to be temporarily placed in a concrete stands at the Church’s grounds for the people to touch and in this age of ‘selfies’ to take photos.

These will eventually be placed at the belfry of St. Lawrence The Martyr Church.

For Calesterio, Campanero and the rest of the people of Balangiga, the return of the bells closes a chapter of the town whose ancestors stood up to defend and fight for their rights and the same time, will help further the ties that bind between the Philippines and the United States.

ADE Bollido of DPWH-Biliran 1st in the province to be accredited with an ASEAN engineer status

Bollido, assistant district engineer of the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH)-Biliran District Engineering Office (DEO) is the first in the district office and the first in the province of Biliran to be an accredited as member of the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) Engineers.

The accreditation was conferred to Bollido on November 13, 2018 during the 36th Conference of the ASEAN Federation of Engineering Organizations (AFEO) from Novem-

In the latest batch of conferment, Bollido added that he is the only one from Region VIII who received the ASEAN Engineer Award and become part of the AFEO.

International Human Rights Day

Groups call MO 32 part of the continued militarization in the country by the Duterte gov't

Progressive group in Eastern Visayas joins in celebrating the 70th International Human Rights Day. The rallyists tore a copy of Memorandum Order 32 directing deployment of military and police in Samar. (ROEL T. AMAZONA)

TACLOBAN CITY-About 200 people representing from different progressive groups from this city joined on Monday (December 10) in the observance of the International Human Rights Day as they decried what they call the militarization under the administration of President Rodrigo Duterte.

The protesters burned a copy of Memorandum Order (MO) 32 issued by Malacañang on November 22 which was used as the legal basis for the deployment of additional soldiers and policemen to Samar and three other areas in the country.

The order states that these areas are affected with 'lawless violence' committed by members of armed groups.

Joshua Sagdullas, spokesperson of Bayan Muna-Sinirangan Bisayas, said that while they do not contest on the existence of lawless violence in Samar, in particular, these were committed by state enforcers.

"We agree that there is a state of lawlessness (violence) in Eastern Visayas, especially in Samar. But on our end, we know that the military and the police are the main perpetrators of this," he said.

Based on their monitoring, about 62 human rights abuses have been committed in the region involving state enforcers committed under the Duterte administration.

The Armed Forces in the region has consistently denies that they have committed any human rights abuses maintaining that they respect the rights of the civilians.

Meantime, Captain Francis Agno, spokesperson of the 8th Infantry Division based in Catbalogan City, Samar, dismissed claims that the controversial order issued by Malacañang is already a de facto declaration of martial law.

"The writ of privilege was not suspended under the MO 32? So why they claim that it's a declaration of martial law?" he said.

Agno said that under section 4 of said order, it was stated that the constitutional rights of every individual shall be respected and given due regards both by the Armed Forces and the Philippine National Police.

The National Democratic Front of the Philippines in the region has compared the issuance of MO 32 to a declaration of martial law as troops would be deployed in areas identified under the order which could result to rights abuses and crack-down of those who opposes the Duterte administration.

"Duterte's MO 32 shows his intention to impose nationwide martial law other than Mindanao alone. It's a declaration of de facto martial law in Eastern Visayas and an intensified crack-down against all opposition - armed or not," the group said.
