TACLOBAN CITY- Classes across the region were suspended amid threat of tropical depression 'Amang' on Monday (Jan.21) as preemptive evacuations were carried out by several local government units to ensure safety of their residents.

Here in Tacloban City, Mayor Cristina Romualdez issued Executive Order 2019-01-001 suspending classes in all levels due to the threat of Amang, the first weather disturbance to hit the city and the rest of the region for this year.

The city governments of Ormoc and Baybay, both in Leyte; Maasin in Southern Leyte; Calbayog and Catbalogan, both in Samar; and Borongan in Eastern Samar.

The provincial governments of Leyte, Southern Leyte, and Northern Samar have also declared a one-day suspension of classes due to Amang.

Likewise, several towns in Biliran, Samar, and Eastern Samar provinces also suspended their classes.

In Northern Samar, which was severely affected by last month's tropical depression 'Usman,' Rei Josiah Echano, its provincial disaster risk reduction management officer, said that about 62 families, consisting of 238 individuals, were evacuated due to threat of possible flooding

TACLOBAN CITY - A groundbreaking ceremony for the more than P400-million water supply system project seen to solve the water supply woes of the north resettlement sites was held on Friday, January 18, 2019, in Barangay Cabalawan, this city.

to Muñoz and Barangay Chairman Lito Balangbang.

Lapus assured that the LWUA will earnestly follow up on the immediate completion of the project on orders of President Rodrigo Duterte.

Go Bag

DILG says emergency bag not meant to endorse Bong Go's senatorial bid

TACLOBAN CITY- A backpack bag issued by the Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG) in Eastern Visayas among its employees has become an issue among netizens.

The backpack or haversack is being described as a 'go bag' which, apparently, did not sit well to some netizens who claimed that labeling it as such is a subtle way of promoting the senatorial bid of former presidential assistant Christopher 'Bong' Go.

"GO Bag is, obviously, another epaltactic," one netizen said, reacting to the bag distribution made by the DILG, which started on Monday (Jan.14), for its 390 employees.

Go is running for senator in this year's election under the administration party PDP-Laban.

Recent surveys indicated that despite the endorsement of his former boss, he remain to be outside probable winners.

"A go bag has been called as a go bag way

The go bag is not named to help advance the senatorial candidate of former presidential aide, Christopher 'Bong' Go, says Ian Colasito, assistant chief of DILG-8, local government monitoring and evaluation division. # More than 160 4Ps beneficiary-students are to receive assistance from CHed TACLOBAN CITY – About 164 poor students enrolled at the Maasin City College (MCC) are to receive assistance from the Commission on Higher Education (ChEd).

This was disclosed by Maasin City Mayor Nacional Mercado who said that he already received a check of P6.75 million from CHed.

MCC is one of the recipients of the Tertiary Education Subsidy (TES) program of the CHed.

The 164 students belong to families who are recipients of the government's Pantawid Family-ang Pilipino Program (4Ps).

According to Mayor Mercado, he received P6.75 million from CHed's chairperson, Prospero de Veyra, for this financial aid.

Each of the identified 164 students are to receive P40,000.

"The 164 qualified student-beneficiaries were screened by ChEd central office based on the qualifications set by their office," Mayor Mercado said.

"These students came from families who belonged to the 4Ps who are economically disadvantaged and deserved to be given such benefit," he added.

Mercado added that the distribution of TES will be held after check clearing this week.

"The CHed chairperson also instructed me to assist the Department of Social Welfare and Development in the evaluation of the beneficiaries and those who are not included but are eligible in the list," the city mayor said.

TES is one of the core programs under the Republic Act No. 10931 also known as the Universal Access to Quality Tertiary Education Act, has an allocation of PhP16 billion from the PhP40 billion budget to implement the law.

Priority in receiving the assistance are students who continue to benefit the Expanded Students' Grants-in-Aid Program for Poverty Alleviation (ESGP-PA); students residing and studying in private HEIs in cities/municipalities with no existing state university or college or CHed-recognized LUC(local university or college); students included in the Listahanan 2.0; and those not in the Listahanan 2.0 but show proof of indigency such as BIR certificate of no income, or barangay certificate of indigency, and ranked according to per capita income.

Last October 9, President Rodrigo Duterte signed Republic Act No. 11079 which merged MCC to Southern Leyte States University-Maasin City Campus.

Meantime, in his message following the ceremony, Romualdez acknowledged President Rodrigo Duterte's support for the project which is a realization of a "dream" to supply potable water to the Yolanda Housing Projects.

"Nagpapasalamat kami kay President Duterte sa proyektong ito at naging katotohanan ang lahat ng ito" the former chief executive said.

A three-term mayor of Tacloban, Romualdez lobbied for the project during his term but the move was unsuccessful because of some underlying issues.

The water system project was given priority when the management of the LMWD was transferred to the city government in 2018.

Learning from the richest man

The recent passing away of the country's richest man, Henry Sy, has left behind lessons to learn from, legacies to cherish, and life story to emulate. All this amid challenges and trials facing the country today.

First off, this man started from a humble beginning, a status which characterizes the majority of our people. Poor, that is, even far below the poverty line. That's what the majority of Filipinos are. Nothing wrong with being born poor. Remaining as such is what makes it wrong, like what many of our people are doing—just contented with what they are and not doing much to alter it. Henry Sy did otherwise; he resolved to rise from that lowly state.

Mr. Sy coupled his visions with hard work, too. Visions are good and can provide some sort of guidance and direction, but rid of hard work, they are good as useless. Again, that's what many of us are, we are only good at daydreaming. We envision many things, but we hardly do the required tasks to attain them. Not Mr. Sy, for after laying out his goals, he did everything necessary to reach those goals as evidenced by his projects completed.

While most of us think of spending any amount that comes our way and quickly runs out of it as a result, Mr. Sy thought of investing the same. He had that entrepreneurial bent, investing his money, time, and effort in business. He was a builder, moreover, who risked his multi-million investments amidst political, economic, and social crises. But despite being a risk-taker, he was a firm believer in the positive outcome of events, not allowing circumstances to dictate his fortune.

Today, we have lost such a great man whose wealth status is what the majority of people are craving for. We may not come close to his achievements, but we can somehow learn from his principles, imitate his worthwhile deeds, and follow his footsteps.

On Fire Extinguisher

One of my short stories titled Fire Extinguisher has been subjected to scrutiny among students taking up Literary Criticism in one of the region's premier universities. They got in touch with me online for my answers to their queries. Below is a sample of that interview, which I am publishing here in hopes of shedding light on perhaps similar inquiries.

1. What aspects of the author's personal life are relevant in this story?

The story is set in Cebu, the place where I studied for my master's and doctorate. I have become so familiar with and had developed fondness of the city—the people, the streets, the business establishments, the lifeways, and even the unpleasant activities there.

2. What are the author's major concerns? Do they reflect any of the author experiences?

As regards mobility inside the city, it has become part of my experiences. Mingling and interacting with people is another one. So in a way, with my familiarity with the place, the story almost emanates from my own experience. But it doesn't have to be autobiographical. My concern is just to expose some evils in big cities so that innocent people could be warned.

3. Do any of the events in the story correspond to events experienced by the author?

Yes. Walking along Colon St. used to be a frequent experience of mine. Brushing shoulders with passers-by, bumping into other people, etc.

4. Do any of the characters in the story relate to real people?

Yes, the characters are

Can we really & fully trust Congress?

Some congressmen really do not care so much for their constituents welfare. Most of them think, plan and work primarily to earn benefits first for themselves. They have manifested this for a long, long, time since the existence of the legislative department in our democratic form of government.

Of course whatever activities any administration do, the legislative department provides the legal component by passing laws to support such intentions or projects being undertaken by the government, especially on the funding requirements for such official undertakings.

-oOo-

All proposed and regular expenditures called budget in running the affairs of the offices of government is prepared by the Executive Department but is sent to Congress for their evaluation and approval. Aware of the so called power of the purse, legislators took advantage of such influence by inserting amounts in the proposed budget for their own use, deceptively proposed for projects in their respective congressional districts. This was called pork barrel. When the Supreme Court ruled this to be illegal, they changed it to PDAF but still of the same nature. But PDAF was also declared illegal lately so it now appeared a good budget by Congress to effectively wipe out deceptions. But not yet!

-oOo-

Senator Panfilo "Ping"

Lacson, while sincerely scrutinizing the budget from the House of Representatives for Senate concurrence, discovered there were still "pork barrel" in the 2019 national budget and allotted to Speaker Gloria Arroyo and her close associate Majority Floor Leader Rep. Rolando Andaya. So these deceptions is stopped and will just be transferred to other agencies like DOH.

-oOo-

Congressmen represent people -the Filipino taxpayers in the district he got elected in. Its the Representative who has the role of providing information on whatever development is being undertaken by government for the district he represents. It is also his role to represent the district in filing resolution in Congress for projects intended in the district.

Congressmen should conduct regular press conferences in the district to inform people on development.

Congressmen should also conduct regular consultations in their districts- to discuss all issues or consult them relative to what his constituents would like their representative to do for them.

Is this being done? I doubt!!!

work as a team when we have a good sense of solidarity.

We need to widen and deepen our consciousness such that we are always aware of our duties toward others, and especially toward God, who is the 'first Other,' the principle and goal of our sense of solidarity.

We have to be wary of our tendency to be carried away and completely dominated and absorbed by the technicalities of the things that we do in our life. These technicalities are, of course, important and indispensable, but they should not be allowed to distract us from our sense of solidarity.

Everything that we do, no matter how technically absorbing, should be oriented first of all to God as an act of adoration, of giving glory and thanksgiving, and then to all others whom we have to love and serve.

Without this orientation, the technicalities

Pacquiao at 40

Senator Manny Pacquiao retained his WBA Welterweight belt in his first fight as 40 year old champion. It was a unanimous decision for Pacquiao who defended the world welterweight title which he won in July 2018 by way of a 7th round TKO of Argentine Lucas Mathysse in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

Pacquiao still has what it takes to compete with younger generation of best boxers that no one would think he is 40 years old. He is a freak of nature, a unique champion among fighters a well conditioned boxer who did not show any sign of fatigue in all 12 rounds against Adrien Broner. He wanted to prove the world that at 40 he can still give his best and entertain the fans.

He can still fight the best boxers among the young generation in the likes of Terence Crawford, Vasily Lomachenko, drawn from real people. The story itself is a fictionalized version of a person's experience, someone I know.

5. What biographical fact has the author used?

It's a biographical fact that, as the main character in the story, I used to travel from Leyte-Samar to Cebu, via Ormoc, by boat. I used to roam around and stroll the city, from the downtown area up to the suburbs, including the squatter areas.

6. What biographical facts has the author changed?

Nothing. Facts, there are. I changed the real names of the people involved. The story is no longer the same as the original. It's already dramatized. 7. In what ways does the author view his life as "typical"? Am just typical in many ways, outwardly to be specific, except for my unusual dislike of some things that majority of the people love. Like drinking, smoking, and other vices.

8. In what ways does the author view his life as significant OR extraordinary? I differ from other people in terms of principles, desires, and preoccupations. While others love to stay idle, I always run out of time doing many things, not to mention my artistic bent that drives me crazy when not attended to. I love ideas. I love to create new things. I have my own world that people hardly understand.

In this particular story, women characters may indeed be just ornamental just because they are not fully developed, and they play lesser roles. But to say that they are unimportant is wrong because, in the end, they turned out to be the teacher of the main character. They also exhibit truthfulness and honesty. They are not in any way associated or involved, in the foolishness of the men around them.

My other stories are women-friendly. They are fully developed and have important roles to play, mostly good ones. Personally, I am not anti-women, depicting them as evil or weak, no. It precisely depends on the story. What can be aptly said of my women characters is that—they are most of the time victims in society, without necessarily regarding them as weak.

Commentary

By Fr. Roy Cimagala

The sense of solidarity

WE need to develop a good sense of solidarity. It is that awareness of our duty that we are meant to be with everybody else, and to be concerned for them and to care for them. We should not think only of our own selves, of our own interest, but rather always of the common good.

It's when we have this good sense of solidarity that we would have our authentic fulfillment and not the fake one that we often feel when we think only of our own selves.

We have to be quick to react when we are beguiled by the false charms of self-centeredness and self-indulgence.

This good sense of solidarity certainly behooves us to share whatever we have with others, and vice-versa, we partake of whatever others have. And not only in our joys, but also in our suffering. As much as possible we have to be together in good times and bad, helping each other in any way we can so we can attain our common good. We would know how to his. As a human person, endowed with the spiritual powers of intelligence and will, we are meant to know and love everyone as best as we can, and thus enter into communion with them.

As a child of God, created in God's image and likeness, we are meant to enter into the very life of God, and to reflect the perpetual inter-Trinitarian relation among the three persons in the one God. In that Trinitarian life, there is constant knowing and loving, and that is the dynamic that should also occur in our life.

We are meant to endlessly know and love God and others more and better. We should never say enough nor set limits in this duty. There is always something new, something more and different in our duty to know and love others.

This is how a good sense of solidarity works. We would always be motivated and find ways to know and love God more and better. Yes, it might look like a very daunting duty, but if we allow ourselves to go along with God's grace, things would be easy. What may be humanly hard or even impossible for us, would somehow be made easy and practicable with God's grace.

We just have to learn how to be game in living out our sense of solidarity. We know, because of Christ's assurance, that what may seem to be a loss for us due to this duty, would actually rebound to our own gain many times over.

Noel still insist it should be regulated Former solon open for use of marijuana for medical purposes

Florencio 'Bem' Noel

TACLOBAN CITY- He does not find it wrong if marijuana would be used for medical purposes.

Thus said former congressman Florencio 'Bem' Noel of the An Waray party-list group, when asked if he is in favor of using marijuana as a medical tool.

The use of marijuana for medical purposes came into fore with no less than former president and now House Speaker Gloria Macapagal Arroyo admitting to use marijuana patch to ease her pain due to her cervical spine problem.

Earlier, President Rodrigo Duterte admitted to have used marijuana to make him stay awake.

"My personal stand although it has to be discussed yet with the board of An Waray, I am not against it for even in other places the use of marijuana is already legal for it was scientifically proven that it can really cure," Noel said.

Noel said that once he return to Congress and this controversial measure would be tackled, he would actively join its deliberation.

He insisted that any possible medical use of marijuana should still be supervised and regulated by the government, adding that it could be abused by some.

"It's easy to ask for a prescription from some of our doctors," he said.

During the recently-concluded Miss Universe 2018, the Philippines' bet, Catriona Gray, who eventually won the country's fourth crown of said beauty pageant, agreed that marijuana could be used for medical purposes.

Sari-sari store owners from Samar and Leyte underwent a series of training under Project PREMIUM to strengthen their business skills.

Surviving Storms or: How Sari-Sari Stores Helped Uplift Communities

This is a story permanently etched into our collective memories: a story that tells how Supertyphoon Yolanda — known to the rest of the world as Haiyan — brought communities down as it swept through the country on November 7, 2013, leaving behind 6,300 dead and over 4 billion dollars' worth of damages in its wake.

But the survivors soon found an unlikely symbol of resilience and hope: sari-sari stores.

An iconic sight for Filipinos, the sari-sari store functions not just as a convenience store where residents restock their pantries, it also functions as a place where they can get together and share their stories.

It is because of this unique nature that Project Bagong Araw PREMIUM, a program made possible by the Government of Canada and the Co-operative Development Foundation of Canada, in partnership with the Center for Agriculture and Rural Development, Inc., Mi-croVentures Foundation, Inc. (HAPINOY), and Microinsurance MBA Association of the Philippines, Inc. (RIMANSI), decided to bring the sari-sari store — and the women behind it — to the forefront in its campaign towards rebuilding Leyte and Samar's economies. To date, Project Bagong Araw PREMIUM has equipped over 2,400 beneficiaries with knowledge on business management skills, cash-flow monitoring, product diversification, business continuity planning, and disaster preparedness, with its graduates — affectionately dubbed PREMIUM Graduates] — singing the program's praises.

"Nahubog ako doon sa mga naituro sa amin. Mas natutunan ko kung paano ko patakbuhan 'yong negosyo ko" Tita Alma, a beneficiary from Basey, Samar said.

"Akala ko kagaya lang siya ng iba na nanganakong tutulong...Pero seryoso sila na maging partner ng mga nego-syante" Gilbert Godio, one of The Bagong Araw Philippines PREMIUM project graduates from Catbalogan, Samar, says.

As a way to conclude the program's successful run in Samar and Leyte, the Bagong Araw Philippines PREMIUM project will hold a caravan on the 24th of January as its culminating activity, with the event — to be held at the Leyte Academic Center in Palo, Leyte — expected to initiate partnerships among key players towards a more resilient supply flow chain in their respective communities.

This is a story permanently etched into our memories: a story that tells how Supertyphoon Yolanda brought entire communities down after rampaging through the country on the 7th of November 2013.

But there's another story as well: a story that tells how even the humblest ventures can uplift communities and help them get back on their feet. (PR)

SLSU Kapihan highlights significant accomplishments in 2018

MAASIN CITY- One of the highlights of the Southern Leyte State University (SLSU)'s 3rd Kapihan program, conducted at the Maasin City College on Jan. 11, was the University's profile of excellence it obtained in 2018.

SLSU president Ivy Prose Yepes reported that the university was graded SUC-Level 3 from its previous SUC-Level 2 out of the 10 state universities and colleges (SUCs) in Eastern Visayas, adding that "only SLSU has been upgraded of its status."

Among other accomplishments of SLSU that is worth sharing is the prime HRM (Human Resource Management) Maturity Level 2 accreditation from the Civil Service Commission (CSC).

Yepes said there are four core areas considered by the CSC under the administrative division such as the recruitment and placement of employees, learning and development, rewards and recognition, and the performance management system.

"We have complied the minimum requirements of being a mature agency of government in terms of those four core areas mentioned and we have been endorsed to the national level to receive a bronze award from the CSC-National within this year," Yepes said.

Another accomplishment was the certification of Quality Management System, the ISO 9001:2015 version received wherein the school was among the SUCs in the country eligible to receive the Performance Based Bonus (PBB).

Yepes was grateful for the concerted efforts made by the members of the SLSU community, for the support and the job well done.

She also announced that the SLSU-Maasin City College integration will be formally launched by the end of this month.

Also present during the Kapihan were Maasin City Mayor Nacional Mercado, Vice Mayor Maloney Samaco, Sangguniang Panglungsod members, SLSU officials, Maasin City College officials and other government personnel.

The SLSU Kapihan program is in coordination with the Philippine Information Agency (PIA)-Southern Leyte with the local media in the province. (LDL/RGC/PIA-8 Southern Leyte) before anybody know of Bong Go. If there is a candidate named as Go, it's not our fault. It's called a go bag because it's something ready-to-go at a moment's notice," Ian Colasito, DILG-8 assistant chief for local government monitoring and evaluation division.

DILG...

"We at DILG, we don't involve in politics. Ours is to implement programs (which include disaster preparedness)," he added.

The go bag distributed to the DILG employees consist of bandages, plastic bottle and envelope, whistle, safety pins, scissors, aqua tablets, blanket, AM/FM radio, flashlight, and a Swiss knife, among others.

Colasito said that the distribution of the go bag is their own initiative considering that Eastern Visayas is prone to disaster like typhoon.

Months ahead of the

May 13,2019 elections, posters and tarpaulins bearing the name and face of the senatorial aspirant could be seen practically anywhere.

Detained Senator Laila de Lima has earlier raised a question as to where Go sources his campaign fund as he aim for a Senate seat in this year's midterm elections.

Go, however, said that his well-meaning friends and supporters are helping him finance his senatorial bid.

Colasito said that they feels bad that their go bag distribution, is being linked to a particular senatorial candidate.

He added that the procurement of these bags was sourced from the funds of their conditional matching grant program.

He, however, could not recall the amount used for the procurement of the items.

Board members file falsification of public documents against acting Gov. Picardal, other officials

TACLOBAN CITY- Eight members of the provincial board in Eastern Samar filed criminal and administrative charges against acting Governor Marcelo Ferdinand Picardal, acting Vice Gov. Jonas Abuda, among others, for reportedly falsifying documents relative to the 2018 provincial budget of P1.28 billion.

On their complaint-affidavit before the Office of Ombudsman-Visayas, board members Celestino Cabato, Byron Suyot, Karen Alvarez, Annabelle Capito, Jaime Ty, Ma. Caridad Sison-Gotelesan, Maximo Zaccate, and Aldwin Ak-lao, alleged that Gov. Picardal, Vice Gov. Abuda together with Franklin Robedizo, provincial board secretary, and Annabelle Echavez, regional director of the Department of Budget and Management (DBM), colluded with each other to approve 2018 provincial budget despite of lacking documents as required.

were accused to have committed falsification of official document, dishonesty, grave misconduct, and conduct prejudicial to the best interest of the service.

On their nine-page complaint they filed before the anti-graft court on December 13, 2018, with the Leyte Samar Daily Express obtaining a copy over the weekend, claimed that the provincial board did not approved the 2018 annual investment plan (AIP), which serves as the legal basis of the 2018 annual budget during their January 5 regular session.

However, considering that it was already the start of the fiscal year, they have agreed to pass the 2018 AIP in 'principle' pending the submission of lacking documents by Gov. Picardal.

With the approval of the AIP, the 2018 provincial budget was also approved in principle.

"(But) without our knowledge or information, acting Vice Gov. Abuda and Franklin Robedizo, and approved by acting Gov. Picardal, taking advantage of their positions, in collusion and in conspiracy with each other by means of fraud, deceit, and misrepresentation, unlawfully and feloniously prepared, issued, and falsified Appropriation Ordinance No. 18-30 (involving) P1.28 billion... by themselves alone and wilfully deviating from our established procedure for us to affix our signatures..." the complainants said.

The same 'falsified' appropriation ordinance was submitted and approved by the regional DBM office as represented by Echavez.

Reached for his comment, Robedizo dismissed the allegation saying that it was nothing but politically grandstanding.

He said that the budget was duly approved by the provincial board members, one of the complainant, Cabato, served as its movant.

"Nobody interposed and objected when it was approved. It was already reviewed and approved by the DBM and declared as operative by the DBM," Robedizo said.

Incidentally, the provincial government of Samar is operating under the 2018 budget as its proposed 2019 P1.4 billion budget has yet to be approved by the members of the Sangguniang Panlalawigan. (JOEY A. GABIETA)
