7th Yolanda anniversary

Alfred: Only Masses due to COVID-19 pandemic

JOEY A. GABIETA

TACLOBAN CITY- This year's commemoration of super typhoon 'Yolanda' will be 'very simple' as it is impacted by another catastrophe, the coronavirus disease (COVID-19), that has also claimed lives.

City Mayor Alfred Romualdez, in a press conference, said that several of the previous activities that were normally held during the anniversary of Yolanda's onslaught are cancelled.

Tacloban, considered the ground zero of the world's strongest typhoon to hit inland, is to hold the seventh year anniversary of the Nov.8,2013 deadly typhoon this Sunday.

Mayor Avestruz delivers her Soma: Despite COVID-19, projects, programs for people unhampered

TACLOBAN CITY- Barugo Mayor Maria Rosario 'Macel' Avestruz said that despite of the threat of the coronavirus disease (COVID-1) that hit their town, programs and projects intended for the people were not affected.

Avestruz made this remarks during her November 3 state of the municipality address (Soma) held at their public gymnasium.

According to her, COVID-19 affected not only the lives of the Barugonons as many establishments were forced to cease their operations due to the health pandemic.

"Almost eight months have passed since we started this war against COVID-19. And for the past eight months, many

SIMPLE COMMEMORATION. As Tacloban City is also grappling the impacts of the coronavirus disease(COVID-19) pandemic, the 7th year onslaught of super typhoon 'Yolanda' will be marked with only masses to be held in two areas, one of which will be at the mass grave in Brgy. Basper. (FILE PHOTO)

“For Yolanda’s anniversary, it will be a very simple commemoration. We’ll just have some Masses, perhaps at the mass grave and at the shipwreck,” the city mayor said Friday (Oct.6).

The sites Romualdez referred were the mass burial site located in Barangay Basper where more than 2,200 people who died due to the massive typhoon were buried, and the Yolanda Shipwreck Memorial Park located in Brgy. 68(Anibong District)where commercial cargo M/V Jocelyn was washed inland due to the storm surge generated by Yolanda.

He also said that while mass gathering is strictly prohibited during this time of quarantine, he might just allowed entry at the mass burial ground.

Social distancing and other health protocols should always be observed during the visit, the city mayor said.

To recall, the national government prohibited any visit to cemeteries and other burial grounds during the All Saints and Souls Days as an added measure to stop any possible spread of the virus.

Romualdez said that while this year’s seventh anniversary of Yolanda’s onslaught will be simple due to COVID-19 restrictions, those who perished will still be remembered.

The city mayor added that the people should not forget one of the lessons learned due to Yolanda-to evacuate once there is a typhoon.

“I ask the residents not to forget Yolanda. If there is a super storm, evacuate immediately,” Romualdez said.

The city mayor said that the simple ceremony of Yolanda’s onslaught is mainly due to COVID-19 which has already claimed 15 lives in the city.

Tacloban has 950 total COVID-19 cases of which 869 of them have recovered from the deadly virus.

Other areas in the region also affected by Yolanda have also cancelled their annual commemorative programs due to COVID-19 pandemic.

For one, Guiuan Mayor Annaliza Gonzales Kwan said that instead of these programs, the municipal government will only have a Mass on Sunday.

It was in Guiuan town where Yolanda made its first landfall early morning of Nov. 8, 2013 that killed more than 100 people of the town.

EDC, ASUS distribute laptops to Leyte scholars, support students in “new normal”

Thirty four SIKAT scholars of Lopez-led geothermal leader Energy Development Corporation (EDC) recently received their brand new ASUS laptops last 22-23 October as the learning environment in the country shifted to online and modular classes due to threats of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19).

EDC tapped Taiwan-based multinational computer and electronics company ASUS to provide laptops for free to the SIKAT scholars in Kananga, Leyte and Ormoc City as they venture towards the new normal of online learning.

EDC Corporate Social Responsibility Head for its Leyte geothermal facility, Erwin Magallanes, said it has always been the company’s top priority to support unprivileged but deserving students through its newly branded flagship education program SIKAT.

Magallanes, likewise, expressed his gratitude to ASUS for its laptop donation to SIKAT scholars. “We thank ASUS for their support to our program, which will definitely help our students in obtaining quality education despite the current remote learning set-up,” he said.

Palapag town mayor dies due to COVID-19 complications

TACLOBAN CITY- The mayor of Palapag town in Northern Samar, Manuel Aoyang, was confirmed to have died due complications of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) on early morning Friday (Oct.6).

This was confirmed by the town's health officer Dr.Delia Chy who said that the 68-year old mayor died while confined in one of the private hospitals here in Tacloban City at around 1:30 am.

Aoyang, who was serving his third and last term as mayor of Palapag (with more than 38,000 people spread on its 33 barangays), has been on a dialysis for two years now.

“(The entire) town is in mourning. The flag (at the municipal building) is now at half-mast to show our respect to our mayor,” Chy said in a phone interview.

As a rule of succession, Vice Mayor Marlon Agno will assumed the post of mayor of the town.

Chy said that Mayor Aoyang was brought to the hospital last October 27 and as part of the protocol, was swabbed the following day, Oct.28.

The positive result of the swab test came out on Oct.29.

Chy said that as part on the protocol on the managing of a dead person due to COVID-19, the mayor would be buried today (Oct.6) at the town's catholic cemetery.

At present, the town has 35 cases.

Leyte maintains MGCQ status for November

PALO, Leyte – The province of Leyte has maintained the modified general community quarantine (MGCQ) implementation for this month of November.

Leyte Governor Leopoldo Dominico Petilla told reporters in an interview that he has signed Executive Order (EO) number 11-02-2020 maintaining the MGCQ status for the province for the whole month of November.

Petilla, however, clarified that the MGCQ status “may be shortened or extended depending on the recommendation of the Provincial IATF COVID-19, without prejudice to declaration of localized Enhanced Community Quarantine in local areas.”

What the province has done for the MGCQ implementation last month will just be carried out for this month, he added.

The province of Leyte was under the MGCQ implementation for the month of October.

The governor added that the mechanisms that had been in place by the local government before will ensure that the economic activities will not be hampered while our authorities continue to fight the spread of COVID-19.

He added that the less stringent quarantine measures will allow the unrestricted delivery of goods and services to the public like the unhindered movement of farm products to the market or consumers.

Petilla said that as in previous MGCQ implementations, the activities that will remain prohibited include the groupings or by nature attract the mass gathering of people.

This includes among others the carnivals, concerts, sports tournaments, trade fairs, fiestas, theaters, cultural shows, clubs, religious activities, retreats, and workshops and other business gatherings which may include conventions and conferences.

Business establishments may continue with their operations on conditions that they will comply with the requirements as stipulated in the health protocols. In the transportation business like the public utility vehicles (PUVs), the owner or operator should comply with the safety measures and standards required by the Department of Transportation, Petilla said.

Mangroves save lives during Yolanda's onslaught seven years ago

TACLOBAN CITY- Pedro Cahindo, Jr., swears that their village in San Jose District could have more deaths when this city was pummeled by Super Typhoon ‘Yolanda’ exactly seven years ago.

But because of the mangrove forest along the shore in their village in Barangay 83(Paraiso), the more than 2,800 residents were saved from the storm surge that comes with the massive typhoon.

However, 23 residents of the village died due to Yolanda which generated a deadly 20-foot storm surge coming from Cancabato Bay which rings San Jose district, considered the worst-hit area of the city due to the world's strongest typhoon to hit inland.

The lush and thick mangrove forest in Barangay 83(Paraiso) in San Jose District, Tacloban City is credited by the residents for saving their lives when Super Typhoon ‘Yolanda’ pummeled their village seven years ago.

“We are thankful to these mangroves and there is no way for us not to rehabilitate our mangrove forest knowing that these will save us again from a natural calamity like typhoon,” Cahindo said.

And now five years later, the more than seven hectares mangrove cover of Brgy.51 appears to have been completely restored and in full life and now thriving with fishes and crabs.

But the villagers, knowing the benefit of the mangroves during the Nov.8,2013 catastrophe, decided to rehabilitate their mangrove forest by planting again sometimes in 2015.

way of helping the environment and as part of their risk reduction management during a calamity situation.

“Our people here in the village are aware on the usefulness of our mangrove forest. That it is not only for our protection from a typhoon but even in preserving our marine lives like fish and crabs which now thrives there,” he said.

Girlie Obillo,43 and mother to seven children, said that she too was thankful that their village have mangrove cover that helped them during the onslaught of Yolanda and in the succeeding typhoons.

“While we’re hit by the storm surge, its impact was not that strong because the mangroves protected us. They helped slow down the rush of the water from the sea,” she said.

Obillo said that she and the rest of the families living close to the mangrove forest are aware on the usefulness of the mangrove forest.

Thus, she said, no one dare cut the mangroves. “We know it is illegal to do. And why would we destroy something that protects us from a calamity?” she said.

Cutting of mangroves is illegal in the country unless one secures a permit from the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR).

Danilo Elias, 62, who was one of the residents of the village who helped plant more than 500 propagules back in the 1990s covering around four hectares, said that they are thankful that the villagers are aware the benefit of these mangroves.

“From their experience in Yolanda, they have learned that these mangroves could protect us from a calamity like massive flooding. That is why, they don’t cut any of our mangroves here. They are helping us protect the mangroves as they know that mangroves help mitigate the impact of flooding brought by typhoon,” he said.

He, however, said that during their clearing of mangroves, the cut trees

Crucial elections

As of this writing, the eyes of the entire world were still feasting on the presidential election and its results there in the United States of America, the reason being that, in one way or another, their lives are to be affected depending on the winner between the presidential candidates, Joe Biden and Donald Trump.

Directly affected of course is the US, itself, and its citizens, depending on the personal stand and convictions of the winner relative to crucial issues. One’s win could either ease up or burden their lives in certain aspects. A Biden victory, for instance, could provide a big ally for the socialists, a strong support for the LGBT, more liberty for the abortionists and the like, and enhanced restrictions to christian fundamentalists. A Trump win, on the other hand, could provide the opposite to these.

Repercussions in the international arena are equally to be felt with tremendous impact. With Biden, for example, Israel would have plenty of headaches and frustrations in their endless quest for peace, and this would greatly affect the peace and order situation in the Middle East. Such regime, too, is expected to befriend communist China which is accused by many of subtly invading the entire world. Trump’s victory could likewise alter all this.

Our country, being caught up in the West Philippine Sea tension, must be in for a risky situation, knowing that it can’t handle the issue all by itself in the face of China’s militaristic approach in the imposition of Chinese claims. We need a strong ally that could back us up. But with a US regime under Biden that is reconciliatory with China for an ally, we doubt if it will ever come to our defense.

We can only hope and pray that things will work for the better whoever makes it to the White House for the succeeding years. May the God of heaven intervene should things go from bad to worst.

Resign for the corrupt

Lately, President Rodrigo Duterte was reported to have urged the corrupt officials in government to resign. This after initial reports from investigations revealed the personalities behind the unabated corruption in various government agencies.

Is it a plea? Or to helplessly beg? Whatever. Even if it is an order, we doubt if it will ever work. Corrupt people are not fools to heed that call. They will not voluntarily do it. In the first place, they are still pretending to be innocent until proven guilty beyond any shadow of a doubt. Should they resign, that would be tantamount to admission of their guilt, which is quite embarrassing on their part in case they still have that shame left in them. Doing it is something suicidal, so why should they?

That’s not the way for us to get rid of these people. We know that. It seems that the president is just too gentle on them with this plea. They must be removed from their respective positions. Forcibly, based on the existing laws. They must be sued in court, and eventually dismissed from service. The government watchdogs should take full responsibility in effecting all this. If they are dismissing minor figures for minor dishonesty, then all the more that they must fire these corrupt officials for their dishonesty that ruins our economy, government services, the taxpayers, and so on.

They don’t deserve to be there! If they cannot be trusted, they should not hold positions in the government. There are more honest people who can do their jobs, and who will not cheat on taxpayers. Stinking, rotten eggs should not be kept in drawers—they will just spoil the good ones that are affected. They must be thrown to the garbage, or buried under the soil.

But again, requesting them to just resign is surely not enough. Not only will they refuse, they will likewise perpetuate their irregularities and corrupt practices. Granting that

Trump vs Biden

A barangay-level, Pinoy analysis of the recent presidential elections

BELIEVE YOU ME, SINCE THE OTHER DAY, NOV. 5th, FRIENDS & RELATIVES HAVE BEEN TEXTING & CALLING ME (AGAIN!); ASKING FOR MY (RETIRED POLITICIAN'S & SENIOR SIXTY CENTS') ANALYSIS. (Heh heh.)

Their texted messages were more or less like this: "Mr. Q, being a veteran (?) political strategist, (?) [Gosh, do people really regard me as such?]-- "With the prevailing political impasse in the United States, what would you have done, or what would you do, if you were/are part of the Democrat Candidate JOE BIDEN's Campaign Staff?"

Wow, baga na gud aco hin macarit nga political analyst! Big deal hini nga taga barangay!

But anyway, as I wrote in this column (Daily Express 27 OCT 2020), this senior-citizen former politician, is by nature a "De-jadista," who usually sides with the "underdog," since this is the kind of life this Columnist has had for years now.

That's why, even as a non-Fil-Am and definitely not a U.S. voter, but a former active politico, I read & follow political developments in the States.

I started my dislike for President Donald Trump when I saw on TV how he disregarded debate rules, interrupted and bullied rival candidate former Vice-President Joe Biden several times, even though the later had the floor and was speaking.

Many Americans who were interviewed on TV call Trump as a loud-mouthed braggart, being the billionaire owner of the Trump Empire, who for years, is so used to commanding and bullying his subordinate executives, underlings and employees on what to do 'or else...'

Now, it was all over the news a few weeks back, that Trump called the United States' top disease expert Dr. Anthony Fauci an "IDIOT," all because Fauci advised the President for the "White House to order the mandatory use of Face Masks & Social Distancing in order to save lives."

And that Trump even fired many officials who were hesitant to follow his orders -- many officials whom he appointed to office since 2017.

Mind you, reading & hearing those news during time pressure to finish the modules assigned every week, pupils and students could care less of finding, much more knowing, the errors. The aim is primarily to finish answering the modules than really learning the subject matters.

In the face of burdensome tasks for teachers, one easy way out to help the parents help their children answer the modules is to provide answer keys. It is intended as a guide for students to check their answers after finishing the modules. That would also help parents in assisting their children as they go through the modules.

Unfortunately, there are some observations from concerned parents that some answer keys are erroneous too. This will complicate the problem as pupils and students would now have basis to insist that their answers are correct as they are found in the answer keys. Worst, some of the answer keys may be used wrongly in answering the modules beforehand.

FR. ROY CIMAGALA

Mercy and God's justice

WE have to be clear about this very heartwarming truth of our faith. God is always willing to forgive us no matter how grave our sins are. He always offers forgiveness to us and it is all up to us to take that offer. We should never be afraid to go to him asking for forgiveness.

Remember that scene of him hanging on the cross before he died. One of his last words was: "Forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do." (Lk 23,34) Not only did he offer forgiveness to those who crucified him, who at the end of the day are actually all of us because we all sin and sin is the cause of his crucifixion. He also made the effort to find an excuse for his killers, for all of us. That's what real love is, which is what God is.

they indeed will resign, what do we gain out of it? It will just make them happy because they will be relieved from their administrative obligations and liabilities. They might lose their jobs, but who cares? They have had millions in the banks for their corruption spree. They will just retire happily.

So the best thing to do really is to run after them, make them pay for their stealing by way of dismissal from service, retrieval of their stolen money, and imprisonment if need be depending on the gravity of their offenses. This way, justice will be served. And they moreover could sample the fate of corrupt personalities in government. At least, government employees who are into the same vice and those in the future will think twice before they will engage in graft practices.

We hope that the government will take this anti-corruption campaign very seriously. With corruption diminished, the people would then be able to enjoy better services from the government, and their lives will somehow improve.

Would he still forgive us if our sins are really that big and ugly? Again, let's remember that the greatest evil, the biggest sin committed not only by some men but by all of us, has already been done. And that is none other than the killing of God in Christ on the cross.

Whatever sin we commit, no matter how big and ugly, is nothing compared to that most horrible sin. So, let's not exaggerate our sinfulness. Our sins may be very horrible, but God's grace, his mercy, can always handle them. (cfr. Rom 5,20)

And why is God so merciful? The only reason we can find is that at bottom, regardless of how we may have been behaving in our earthly life, we are all children of God, the object of his predilection among his creatures, since we have been created in his image and likeness. He cannot but love us, yes, even to a fault.

God in Christ will do everything to save us. That is why St. Paul said in his Letter to the Romans: "Since He did not spare even his own Son but gave him up for us all, won't he also give us everything else?" (8,32)

It's good that we remember these words always so that we avoid overreacting to our sinfulness and to our not-so-well-formed conscience that may relay to us a devil-inspired thought that we are already irredeemable. God is willing to go all the way to the gates of hell if only to save us.

God knows from all eternity that we would have weaknesses, that we would fall into sin, that we have the capacity to go against him, and yet all these do not deter him from creating us and helping us all the time so we can be what he wants us to be.

We cannot consider God the way we, especially in our wounded condition, consider ourselves. God's ways are way above our ways. His standards, so to speak, are infinitely higher than our standards. Though we are his image and likeness and should therefore reflect him in our lives, we would always find ourselves short of what he wants us to be. To counter this lifelong predicament of ours, we should just act out of sheer faith.

Anyway, we are told by St. Paul himself that he who started everything with us will also be the one to complete and perfect everything is us. (cfr. Phil 1,6) Ours is simply to go along with God's will and ways as best that we can.

Hopefully, once we are convinced of God's love and mercy, we can unburden ourselves of unnecessary feelings of guilt and sadness, and just focus and rally all our powers and resources in doing what is truly good, which is none other than to do the will of God, loving him and loving everybody else.

That is when we can truly say we have passed the test of our life which is about whether we want to be with God or against him!

Modulated teaching (Last of a series)

It is really appalling that the issue on errors on textbooks still exist despite calls for its correction. What had been found by parents as glaring errors in the modules being distributed to pupils and students could bring lasting repercussions that may be hard to undo. They may be minor, typographical or substantive errors but the need to rectify remains valid. In the face of such errors, pupils and students must be vigilant in finding them as they encounter them in their studies.

Parents helping students must also be vigilant in making necessary corrections where needed. It is a task of making corrections must not be placed on teachers alone. Everyone must care and do his or her share in ensuring that corrections of such errors are made before pupils and students learn matters that are wrong and are thought to be correct because it came from books and learning materials.

The problem though is that not all parents, much more pupils and students, can do the task of finding the errors. In cases where the pupils and students could hardly read the learning materials, and parents cannot do as well, for lack of knowledge or lack of time, the lessons pass to the learners as printed on learning materials. Elderly plants 10,000 mangroves to protect his house, community from rise of water TACLOBAN CITY – A resident of Matalom town, Leyte has planted mangroves to protect his house from any possible storm surge or rise of water.

Gary Dabasol, 65, has planted 10,000 mangroves along the coast of their village in Punong for eight years now.

The mangroves that he planted were of meyapi, pagatpat and bakawan varieties.

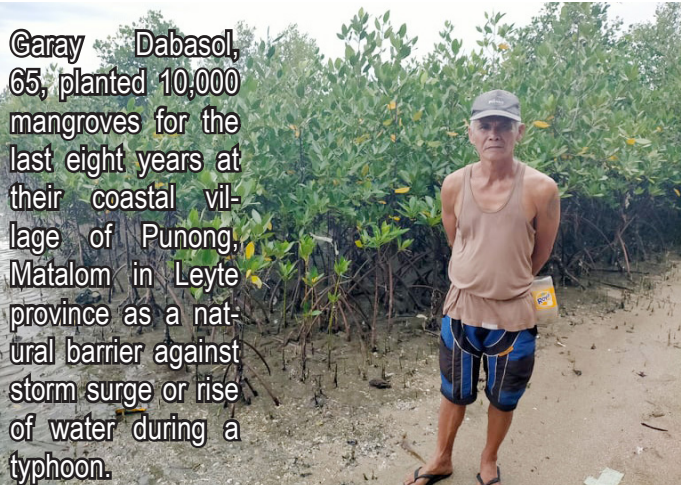

Dabasol said that he decided to plant mangroves because their house is located in a coastal area which is prone to destruction of big waves during bad weather like typhoon.

He added that mangroves can also help increase the catch of the fishermen because it is also a spooning area for fish, crabs, and shrimps and other sea marine life.

“I’m glad that I was able to inspire people.I hope that they will also follow what I am doing,” Dabasol said.

The story of Dabasol was discovered by netizen Dan Niez from Hilongos town, also in Leyte, who visited the coastal area of Matalom to unwind.

Garay Dabasol, 65, planted 10,000 mangroves for the last eight years at their coastal village of Punong, Matalom in Leyte province as a natural barrier against storm surge or rise of water during a typhoon.

Niez said that during his last visit to the area several years ago, the place was empty and those who are walking along the shoreline could immediately see the seawater.

But during his visit recently, he was surprised that there are already full grown mangroves planted along the coastline.

“When I posted it many people reacted especially the millennials and praised Tatay Gary for what he did. I think they were inspired and I hope they are inspired because planting 10,000 mangroves is not that easy,” Niez said.

“I hope that the government will also help him because what he did is extraordinary. It is not usual for one person to have this kind of initiative,” Niez added.

He added that the youth should follow the example of Dabasol and make him as role model in protecting the environment and marine ecosystem.

Since Niez post the story of Dabasol in Oct 25, it already earned more than 3, 000 likes and almost 3,000 shares. (ROEL T.AMAZONA)

Borongan bishop urges Catholics to follow Pope Francis’ call for ‘ecological conversion’

TACLOBAN CITY- The bishop of the Diocese of Borongan has urged the faithful to heed the call of Pope Francis for “ecological conversion” following the calamities and pandemic that hit the country.

“Many of the calamities we face are pointed out by scientists and experts as related to climate change and global warming. Our planet and our poor cry for our attention and right action to save our common home and our more vulnerable brethren in the human family,” said Bishop Crispin Varquez.

“We must move away from the sins of environmental abuse and neglect to environmental and social justice to show that we are truly returning to the Lord,” the bishop added.

In his pastoral letter to mark the seventh anniversary of Super Typhoon ‘Yolanda’ on Sunday (November 8), Varquez also called on the Catholics to “remember God’s love and mercy for our people.”

“It has been seven years since Super Typhoon Haiyan or Yolanda came our way. Despite the pandemic we are going through, we still have fresh memories of the horrors we went through,” said Varquez.

While the bishop recalled the “goodness and compassion” of those who helped the Yolanda victims, he said that Catholics “must be thankful to the Lord that we have risen from the horrible destruction.”

“The fact that most of that is now only a painful memory testifies to God’s saving acts at work in our own history,” he said, calling those who helped the storm survivors as “agents of God’s mighty hand.”

“We pray for those dear ones who lost their lives during and shortly after Yolanda’s wrath. We continually entrust them to the Father of mercy in our Masses and prayers,” the bishop said.

“As we face a tense present and an uncertain future, let us continue to pray for our deliverance from any and all calamities, both natural and man-made, physical or spiritual, particularly Covid-19 and other vagaries of the weather, health, political, social and economic situations,” he added.

are given to the community where they can use them as fire woods or turned into charcoal which they could even sold.

The DENR, noting the multi-purpose of mangrove are encouraging local government units to have their own communal mangrove forest, especially in ‘mangrove-endowed municipalities or cities.’

Mangroves have been proven to be a strong and natural barrier against storm surge or flooding.

“Initiatives made by local communities are most welcome and appreciated by the DENR,” Maita Reina Sugang, DENR regional information officer, said.

When Yolanda pummeled Brgy.83, almost 80 percent of their already old grown mangrove trees were destroyed.

Again, with the aid of DENR and an international group, OISCA (Organization for Industrial Spiritual and Cultural Advancement International) which is into agriculture and environmental conservation and restoration, a group of 28 men and women of the village revived their mangrove forest back in 2015 by removing the dead mangrove and planting 3,000 propagules.

Several scientists and experts have claimed that Yolanda was a climate change-induced typhoon that claimed more than 6,000 lives, affecting 4.1 million residents, and damaging more than one million homes, mostly from Eastern Visayas.

In Tacloban alone, considered as ground zero of the mammoth typhoon, more than 2,200 people were confirmed to have died, turning the once bustling city into a deserted and God-forsaken area.

In Guiuan town, where Yolanda made its first landfall before Yolanda, packing a wind of 295 kph and gusts as 360 kph, before it barreled its way to Tacloban City, the people there have learned their hard lesson, Mayor Annaliza Gonzales Kwan said.

The town mayor said that this kind of attitude was evident when Super Typhoon ‘Rolly’ threatened Eastern Visayas. The super typhoon struck Bicol Region.

“The people of Guiuan have learned their lesson after Yolanda. The Guiuanons, whenever there is a bad weather, follow weather forecasts in radio or in television. And if there is a need, they themselves evacuate from their homes to safer place,” Kwan said.

The DENR added that those who will be found guilty in capturing and killing the critically endangered bird will face a jail time of six years and one day imprisonment to a maximum of 12 years and or payment of fine ranging from P100, 000 to P1 million, as mandated under Republic Act 9147 or the Wildlife Resources Conservation and Protection Act. 2 remote villages in Samar town seek help from the gov’t

MARABUT, Samar- Better accessibility, safe and potable water, irrigation and land ownership.

These were the concerns of the residents of Barangay Tagalag and Tinabanan, two of the remote villages of this town.

These concerns of the villagers were made known by the government under its Retooled Communist Support Program (RCSP), a program that aims to identify issues and concerns in remote communities identified threatened by the Communist Party of the Philippines-New People’s Army (CPP-NPA).

The two villages, although has no presence of CPP-NPA, are considered threatened areas because their location is along the path that is used by rebel members to traverse in crossing the Samar and Eastern Samar province.

Tagalag is located around four kilometers from the town proper while Tinabanan is about 10 kilometers but two of its sitios or sub-villages are located more than 20 kilometers from the village proper and already near the boundary between Samar and Eastern Samar provinces.

Tagalag has more than 800 residents while Tina-

The government continue to provide assistance to baran-gays, especially those located in remote areas, like Ta-galan and Tinabanan in Marabut town, Samar. The two vil-lages received generators from the Office of Civil De-fense as represented by Director Lord Byron Torrecarion, Major Gen. Pio Diñoso, commanding officer of the 8th In-fantry Division. banan has more than 1,200 residents.

“With this approach, communities in far-flung areas could see that the government is serious in ending problem on insurgency because they can see that all agencies are working together unlike before that it is only through a military solution,” Mayor Percival Ortillo said.

Ortillo added that for the people to know government’s program to end insurgency there should be an information dissemination, and for it to become successful, it should be partnered with social infrastructure projects and livelihood support.

“Without these two, this program will not succeed. To make insurgency irrelevant, we have to provide answers and solutions to what the people needs,” he added.

As part of the RCSP in the municipality, an ‘Ugnayan sa Barangay’ activity was held in the municipal town hall last Thursday (Oct.5).

A total of 300 selected residents from the two villages received food packs and hygiene kits from the Office of Civil Defense.

The program was graced by 8th Infantry Division Commander Major General Pio Diñoso, Philippine Information Agency Regional Director Olive Tiu, OCD Regional Director Lord Byron Torrecarion, and other officials from different government offices.

“Unlike before where it is only the military that is working to end insurgency, now you can see that all agencies of the government and the local government are together in this campaign. But we can never achieve our goal without your help, the community,” Diñoso said.

“We are thankful that you welcome us in your community and believes in the program that we presented. Because of that we are able to hasten our goal to end insurgency by 2022 by the time our president term ends,” Diñoso added.

sectors of our community have been affected. The imposition of quarantine restrictions brought many our fellow Barugonons to economic collapse. Many were rendered jobless and businesses greatly affected,” Avestruz said in her message.

But despite of the adverse situation, the municipal government continue to work by providing programs and projects that benefited the people, she added.

“LGU-Barugo continued delivering basic services to its constituents. We stick to the frontlines and despite all the threats from COVID-19, we have ensured that programs and projects that will benefit Barugonons will continue to be implemented,” Avestruz said.

At present, the town has 136 COVID-19 cases since March of this year and of which only 45 are considered as active cases.

And for next year, the people of Barugo could expect more projects, both funded by the municipal government, and financial aid from other government agencies like the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH), the town mayor said.

Among the projects that are in the pipeline for next year include completion of the town’s bus terminal; construction of canopy at the town public market; improvement of the town gymnasium; acquisition of more lots for the expansion of the public cemetery; construction of road networks, especially in far-flung barangays for easy and fast transportation of goods and services, among others.

“Gradually, we will narrow the long stretches of gravel roads of these barangays to improve access and transportation,” she said.

The municipal government under her administration will continue to provide financial assistance to the barangays for them to finance their chosen ‘felt-need programs and projects.’

She also said that repair and rehabilitation of road projects like the Barugo-San Miguel road will continue as well as the widening of the bridges in Canomantag and Himanglos; concreting of Barangay Roosevelt to Barangay Pitogo as well as the Minuhang-Balud and the Balud-Duka road which is part of the Roads Leveraging Linkages for Industry and Trade Infrastructure Program for the town’s economic zone.

During her speech,

Mayor Avestruz also gave thanks to other officials of the town like Vice Mayor Josephine Tiu and the entire members of the town council and other heads of various offices of the municipal government; Leyte Governor Leopoldo Dominico Petilla; and Reps. Lolita Karen Javier(2nd district) and Florencio ‘Bem’ Noel of the An Waray party-list group.

“To the people of Barugo, ladies and gentlemen who are present here today, I say to you, claim this victory. This is yours!”

Time to give back

'Yolanda' survivors launch aid drive for Super Typhoon 'Rolly' victims

TACLOBAN CITY- Several groups, to include officials and power cooperatives, have extended their assistance to the victims of Super Typhoon 'Rolly' in Bicol Region.

Vice Mayor Jerry Yao-kasin of this city called it "our turn to help" as they are rolling out a donation drive for the victims of 'Rolly' (international name: Goni).

"Thank God, we were spared by this super typhoon. Even if it did not hit us directly, we were worried about our kababayans in the direct track of Typhoon Rolly," said Yaokasin, who survived the 2013 Super Typhoon Yolanda that killed over 6,000 people mostly in this city.

"We will be there to extend assistance as a way to express our gratitude to those who helped us during Yolanda," he added.

Around 100 linemen from 11 electric cooperatives in Eastern Visayas also traveled to Bicol on Tuesday, November 3, to speed up the power restoration activities after 90 percent of poles and electrical power lines were toppled down and destroyed by Rolly.

The linemen will be working for 15 days in Bicol, bringing with them heavy equipment like boom trucks and tools "to bring back light and hope in the area."

A group of vehicle enthusiasts in the region is also calling for more donations for the storm victims through their ride for a cause.

"Humbled by our Yolanda experience, we are announcing our standby, ready-to-go relief operations for our brothers and sisters in Bicol and Southern Luzon," said Rhoel Ladera of Navara Nation Philippines-Eastern Visayas chapter (NNP-EV).

Dubbed as "Angels On Wheels", NNP-EV led the relief efforts to the victims of the Taal Volcano eruption in Batangas in January this year.

"We, survivors of typhoon Yolanda, feel a strong connection with the difficulty currently being faced by our brothers and sisters ravaged by Typhoon Rolly. It is this spirit of unity that pushed us to have a 'Ride for A Cause' to reciprocate the help extended to us by Bicolanos during our darkest days of Yolanda," said Ladera.

"It's now time to give back, donate if we can, no matter how small, even if we ourselves are facing difficulties because of the coronavirus pandemic," he added.

The group launched their charity ride in coordination with the Rotary Club of Tacloban and Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry Tacloban-Leyte Inc., along with the Tacloban-based humanitarian group Volunteer for the Visayans.

"We, Leyteños, know how it feels to be ravaged by a typhoon so close to Christmas. Not so long ago, we also faced a bleak Christmas. And surely, we remember that, as we saw all the help pouring in, it was not just the material assistance that made us smile," said lawyer Ryan Mancera.

Mancera and the rest of the Regional Advisory Council of Police Regional Office (PRO)-Eastern Visayas are currently pooling together emergency assistance, cash or in-kind, for those affected by typhoon Rolly.

TACLOBAN CITY - The recent surrender of two fighters of the New People's Army (NPA) in Samar is a sign that the communist terrorist group is losing their strongholds in the province.

Philippine Army's 87th Infantry Battalion commander Lt. Col. Reynaldo Balido said in a statement on Thursday many NPA rebels are returning to fold

Though closed due to COVID-19 pandemic More than 1,800 cops deployed in all cemeteries in the region

TACLOBAN CITY- Despite the mandatory closure of all cemeteries in the region, police personnel were still deployed on these places during the All Saints' and All Souls' Day on November 1-2.

At least 1,8171 police personnel were deployed to man the burial grounds, seaports, terminals and airports in the region from October 29-November 4.

"We laud the efforts of our PNP personnel and force multipliers in manning the areas of convergence, but we also thank the vigilance and cooperation extended by the public," said Brigadier General Ronaldo De Jesus, police regional director.

Following the guidelines of the Inter-Agency Task Force for the Management of Engaging Infectious Diseases (IATF-MEID), the police regional command also implemented the closure of all private and public cemeteries, memorial parks and columbaries to prevent the spread of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19).

De Jesus has also ordered the deployment of quick response teams, critical and disaster incident management operational task groups to ensure public safety during the event. (RONALD O. REYES) those times, I just smirked, raised my eyebrows with my "wala akong paki'alam attitude," and opened my mouth in a yawn ...

... until I read on the news, that while on a visit to a memorial park for American soldiers, Trump said "the dead heroes buried here are nothing but "failures & losers." Gosh.

He even called Mexicans and Latinos who crossed the Rio Grande in order to migrate to the US as "Low in IQ" immigrants who brought to US murderers and thugs; and despised negroes or blacks as "fake Americans."

On the other hand, Democrats' Presidential candidate JOE BIDEN, a 77-year-old low-key, soft-spoken and relatively a humble but long-time politician, was admired by majority of the Americans, that for so many months, led the polls at 52 vs 38 preferential votes over President Donald Trump.

But Trump's finances & logistical support, aggressive posturing, speech power as the Republicans' 'cheerleader' who used the organization, the might & power of the President's oval office, using the Air Force One Presidential Plane, helicopters, presidential security & escort jet planes for his campaign sorties, White House communications & amenities, and land transportation facilities, slowly overtook Biden's big lead in the polls.

And so, the oft-repeated question -- why was Biden unable to hold on to the goodwill and high preferential votes after the Two (2) presidential votes?

To this Columnist, Biden was not as "bombastic" and aggressive that a "presidential challenger" should be.

And alas, Joe Biden did not ride on the Number One Political Issue in America -- the CORONAVIRUS PANDEMIC!

If I were in Biden's campaign staff, I would have insisted on Joe Biden's use of this Battlecry --

"AS OF TODAY, 230,000 AMERICANS HAVE ALREADY DIED DUE TO CORONAVIRUS. IF YOU WANT THIS NUMBER OF DEAD AMERICANS TO DOUBLE-UP TO 460,000 NEXT YEAR; GROW THREE-FOLD OR EVEN

FOUR-FOLD WITH DONALD TRUMP'S FOUR MORE YEARS IN THE WHITE HOUSE..."

"THEN VOTE FOR MR CORONAVIRUS HIMSELF, WITH HIS 'I DON'T CARE ATTITUDE,'

"OVER A MILLION AMERICANS WILL DIE OF CORONAVIRUS IN THE UNITED STATES DURING HIS PLANNED ADDITIONAL 4 YEARS IN WHITE HOUSE!

(Or a Battlecry similar to that.)

If JOE BIDEN repeated that kind of BATTLE CRY in all his Campaign Sorties, I honestly believe, they wouldn't have this election impasse now in the United States.

In fact, IF JOE BIDEN REPEATED THAT KIND OF BATTLE CRY IN ALL HIS CAMPAIGN SORTIES, I HONESTLY BELIEVE, THE UNITED STATES WOULD ALREADY BE PREPARING FOR THE INAUGURATION OF JOE BIDEN, AS THE NEXT PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA!

NPA losing strongholds in Samar: Army exec of the law as they choose to live peacefully.

The army official made the statement days after the voluntary surrender of "Sadam" and "Allan" both residents of upland Lawaan 1 village in Paranas, Samar on Nov. 1.

They are both members of Squad 1 of Central Front Samar 1, sub-regional committee "Browse" of the NPA's Eastern Visayas Regional Party Committee.

Sadam turned over an M16 rifle, six long magazines for M16, 160 rounds of 5.56mm ball ammunition and a bandolier. Allan surrendered an M16 rifle, a long magazine, and a short magazine for M16, 55 rounds of 5.56mm ball ammunition, and a bandolier.

"Sadam and Allan decided to turn their backs against the NPA and surrender after they learned that their comrades are plotting to kill them as they were suspected of being informants of the military," Balido said.

"This is a manifestation that the communist terrorists do not trust their ranks anymore as most of their members are returning to folds of the law and choosing to live peacefully," he

DAR-E. Samar gives feeds, medicines, and vitamins to 139 CLAAP ARBs

BORONGAN CITY- The Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR) - Eastern Samar Provincial Office distributed three sacks of hog grower feeds, vitamins, and medicines to 139 beneficiaries of the Convergence on Livelihood Assistance for Agrarian Reform Beneficiaries Project (CLAAP).

Marietta Ortiguesa, focal person of CLAAP reported that recently four barangays — San Jose, Siha, Sohutan, and Balacdas — received assistance from the DAR Provincial Office (DAR-PO), Borongan City. Ortiguesa said these barangays identified their swine fattening project, implemented last year.

The focal person said that last year the DAR distributed two piglets, starter, grower and finisher feeds, medicines, and vitamins each for the 139 ARBs.

In Eastern Samar, there are four municipalities with 376 ARBs. Out of the 376 ARBs in Eastern Samar, only 139 ARBs are CLAAP beneficiaries.

The beneficiaries are in San Policarpo, the Alugan Integrated Community Farmers ARB Cooperative which has 30 members.

In Maydolong, Brgy. Maytigbao Farmers Association with 16 members, and Brgy. Canloterio Farmers Association with 18 members.

In Borongan City, Brgy. Balacdas Vegetable Association with 25 members, Brgy. San Jose ARB Association with 15 members, Brgy. Sohutan Farmers Association with 18 members and Siha ARB Cooperative with 17 members.

Ortiguesa disclosed that the said project is to further increase the family income of every agrarian reform beneficiary (ARB) and to strengthen their association.

She further said that the DSWD Central Office selected the qualified beneficiaries and validated them by DAR Central Office. DAR hoped that this project will roll to other ARBs who did not receive the assistance, at least they will be given a chance to have swine fattening which is an additional income for them especially now with the COVID-19 pandemic.

CLAAP is a partnership project of the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) and the Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR), where the DSWD provides the funds in the amount of P893,575 and technical assistance in the review and approval of livelihood project proposals. Balido assured the former rebels that the military will do its best to protect them. The Army battalion will also assist them in their claims for assistance from the Enhanced Comprehensive Local Integration Program of the national government and Local Social Integration Program of local government units of Samar province and Paranas town.

The NPA, which has been waging a five-decade armed struggle against the government, is listed as a terrorist organization by the United States, the European Union, the United Kingdom, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and the Philippines. (SARWELL Q. MENIANO/ PNA)
