“(The) Philippine Army will provide all necessary equipment and resources for your Division to triumph over the enemy and sustain your unit’s milestones for the months ahead,” Centino said in his speech.

General Jose Faustino Jr., chief of staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, also joined the ceremony via video teleconference.

Diñoso, a member of PMA “Maringal” Class of 1988, assumed the post as the commanding officer of the 8th ID on July, 2019.

It was during the term of Diñoso that the government soldiers scored its biggest victory against the members of the New People’s Army (NPA).

Last August 16, 19 NPA rebels were killed in an air and ground assault conducted by the government soldiers against the rebels in Dolores, Eastern Samar.

No soldier was killed in the said operation.

Arming fire personnel aims to protect their equipment, says BFP regional head

TACLOBAN CITY – Firearms issued to personnel of the Bureau of Fire Protection (BFP) will only be used for safeguarding assets of the agency.

This was clarified BFP Regional Director Senior Superintendent Rodolfo Denaga as the government mulls plan to allow firemen to have their own service firearms.

Denaga said that providing BFP personnel of TACLOBAN CITY – The provincial government of Samar is still waiting for the ‘best time’ to promote at the national scene the Secret Kitchen of Samar, a program that aims to promote the culinary tourism of the province.

This campaign was supposed to have a national launching March 20 of last year but was postponed due to corona virus disease (COVID-19) pandemic.

“As of now, a lot of things had been done in relation to that,” Governor Reynolds Michael Tan said.

This preparation includes the documentation for a Secret Samar coffee table book funded by the national office of the Department of Tourism worth P9 million.

The province has also identified food circuit that tourists may visit to try and taste local delicacies and dishes.

These are the Sta. Rita-Marabut-Basey food circuits; Villareal, Calbiga, Paranas-Jiabong with San Sebastian food circuit; Catbalogan City, the San Jorge-Gandara-Matuginao food circuits; and the Calbayog City, and the Dararam-Zumarraga food circuit.

Foods being offered in these circuits includes desserts, viands, local delicacies, ‘pulutan’, and ‘ponson’ which is a Visayan word which means meals that are prepared for a feast, banquet, or lavish celebration.

Among foods popular in these circuits are the ‘tamalos’ of Catbalogan made from tender pork belly with rich peanut sauce on a soft rice flour base, wrapped in banana leaves and steamed for hours; the ‘tinapa’ or smoked-fish in Calbayog City; the ‘tahong’ crackers of Jiabong, and the ‘keseo’ of Gandara.

Gov. Tan added that they are also conducting trainings of additional areas to be included in the Spark Samar which includes Pagsanghan, Tarangnan, Gandara, and portion of Calbayog City.

Early this year, the DOT had turnover to the provincial government a fund worth P3.06 million as assistance to enhance the culinary attraction of the province which will be used to develop product; capacitate tour guides, waiters, cooks, pasalubong (souvenir) center, and food front liners on gastronomy tourism; produce promotional brochure and video; and develop social media content.

BFP personnel will be issued with firearms saying that only investigators and those assigned in protecting their assets detailed at their stations located in highly-urbanized and big cities.

President Rodrigo Duterte signed the Bureau of Fire Protection (BFP) Modernization Act (Republic Act 11589) on September 10 of this year a 10-year modernization period transforming the agency into a modern and world-class institution.

The law also allows the creation of BFP Security and Protection Unit in every cities and municipalities and to be mobilized and provided with equipment “appropriate for self-defense and the defense of others during exceptional emergencies, especially those related to a disturbance of peace and order where the assistance of the BFP is required or sought”.

The law also mandates acquisition of modern fire equipment, expansion of the BFP’s manpower and provision of specialized training for firefighters, among others.

Currently, Eastern Visayas has more than 1,400 BFP personnel assigned in 124 fire stations.

P9.94M Farm-to-market road in Rosario Northern Samar, completed

Aerial view of P9.94-million Farm-to-market road in Brgy. Ligaya, Rosario Northern Samar Catarman N. Samar-The Department of Public Works and Highways Northern Samar First District Engineering Office has completed another Farm-to-market Road (FMR) project in Brgy. Ligaya, Rosario Northern Samar.

The said project has a contract amount of P9.94M which includes road opening of 530m and road concreting of 388m (w=5.00m, thk=0.23m).

Barangay Ligaya is an island barangay in the municipality with a total population of 1,027. Farming and fishing are the main livelihood of the locals. It can be reach via boat for approximately 20 minutes from the town proper.

In an interview, a resident disclosed that prior to the implementation of the project, residents and farmers had to walk by foot to reach barangay proper, passing on the slippery and muddy road especially during rainy days, carrying their farm produce and traveling via boat just to reach the town proper.

With the completion of said project, residents can now utilize and experience a more conducive travel from their farms carrying their products faster and hassle-free.

"The newly concreted road will tremendously help ease the burden of farmers in transporting their agricultural products to the market centers, reducing their transportation cost, and promoting development in the area", said OIC District Engineer Mario Villena.

The FMR project is part of the convergence program between the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) and the Department of Agriculture and is funded under FY 2020 (DA-FMR) Bayanihan II.

Prepare

“When a neighbor's house is on fire, you must prepare.” This is an old adage that reminds us regarding the necessity to prepare in case a neighbor is struck by disaster that could spread far and wide, thus affecting your own.

Taiwan is a very close neighbor of ours, just a little above the Babuyan islands. It is recognized by most countries of the world as an independent state, but China claims it as part of its territory, renegade though it is. For years, it has been under a growing military pressure to accept Beijing's rule, which it vehemently rejects. Any time from now, this island could be “set on fire” as fears of its invasion escalate.

What is it to us, the Philippines, if war breaks out between China and Taiwan? Well, at the moment, Chinese President Xi Jinping promises not to use force in realizing a “peaceful reunification”, but Chinese air force continues to send tactical missions to Taiwan's air defense identification zone.

Taiwan, on the other hand, keeps on bolstering its defenses and rejects China's offer for a “one country, two systems” model. But should war begins, our country would be the first one to get affected.

We have numerous OFWs who are working in Taiwan as professionals, skilled workers, factory workers, and house helpers. In the case of war, they for sure will have to be evacuated home, will lose their jobs, and will have to join the jobless citizens in this country. Travel to and from Taiwan will also cease and thus affect our tourism industry. And if the invading China will run after Taiwan's business interests in our country, they may extend their skirmishes down to our shores.

By next year, we are expected to have new leaders given the upcoming elections. Whatever regime it is that might be installed, it should make the necessary preparations to cushion the impact that a China-Taiwan tension might create. Above all, said preparation must include defenses for our territories that the expansionist China has been salivating over.

A Father's Disclosure

Come closer here, my children. The two of you are in your late teens and are old enough to understand what I'm going to tell you. I hate to say this, and I could be one hundred percent wrong, but I've had suspicions lately that your mother is fooling around with a man.

Before I left for Cebu to work, we had an active, satisfactory husband-wife love life. We both were excited about it and cherished it. Up to the time she vacationed there for around three weeks, we had the same and even more enthusiasm. We missed each other and enjoyed each other like we were on our honeymoon.

In my brief vacations here after that, and up to the time I came home permanently, I noticed that she had changed a lot in private. She lost interest in our intimacy and even refused me many times though I am able to bring her to the peak of her satisfaction. Most of the time, she is just prompted dutifully, not enjoying it anymore with me like she used to. Just waiting to get it done. There had been times when she would vehemently refuse me, even if there was ample time and a chance for it.

One time, when I told her I miss the act already after having been away for several months, she said something which I took for a slip of the tongue: “I've had plenty of it.” What? I thought to myself, how did she have much of it when I've not been here?

I could feel the coldness, the rejection, and the distance, as though I had become a stranger to her. I have read from research that these are signs of a cheating wife. Of a wife whose affection has been attached to another. Could this be because of her old complaint, albeit jokingly—that mine is small, and that I release it prematurely?

Anyway, for my part, see A Father's /page 7 ...

Commentary

FR. ROY CIMAGALA

“Fortes in fide”

THAT’S “strong in the faith” in English. The expression comes from the First Letter of St. Peter (5,9) and is made also in the First Letter of St. Paul to the Corinthians (16,13). Both passages are made in the context of our need to be always on guard against the enemies of our soul and to be trusting of God’s will and ways.

We need to make our faith strong and operative because that is how we can start and maintain our life to be a life with God as it should be. With faith, we start to share God’s knowledge of things and his power, and that is how our life should be since we are God’s image and likeness, meant to share in the very life of God.

At one point, Christ lamented the common phenomenon of our lack of faith. “This generation is an evil generation,” he said. “It seeks a sign, but no sign will be given it, except the sign of Jonah.” (cfr. Lk 11,29-32)

If there is no faith, we will never see the things of God and the rich reality of the truly spiritual and supernatural world, no matter how much we spin our human powers to capture this reality. Not even our powerful sciences and technologies can enter into the spiritual and supernatural reality of our life.

Political Experts Political Analysts

Wow, with so many televisions & radio stations, and so many talk shows in at least double the number of TV & radio stations, plus the social media outlets in this, the unofficial start of the political campaign -- which has actually signaled the start of pinoy’s most anticipated political season ....

... Talk show commentators & announcers are hard-put in coming up with worthwhile “ca-tandems” in their announcers’ booths during their

“on-air” programs.

So, they grab just about any Tom, Dick & Harry who skims over newspapers, watches TV & Facebook videos & listens to radio; and label them as “Political Experts” and “Political Analysts” cono.

Needless to say, as a political “oldtimer,” I just switch channels or turn my app or appliance off and take my siesta.

We have to realize that our faith should not remain only in the theoretical, intellectual level. It has to be a functioning one, giving shape and direction in our thoughts and intentions, our words and deeds. In fact, it should shape our whole life.

The ideal condition is for us to feel our faith immediately. Indeed, it should be like an instinct such that whatever we think, say or do, or whenever we have to react to something, it is our faith that should guide us.

We have to understand that it is our faith that gives us the global picture of things, since it is God’s gift to us, a gratuitous sharing of what God knows about himself and about the whole of creation. It is meant for our own good, for us to live out our true dignity as children of God.

It is a kind of knowledge that will lead us to our eternal life. It will make us relate everything in our earthly life, both the good and the bad, to this ultimate goal in life which is to be in heaven with God, a state that is supernatural. But it is a divine gift that we ally know “political goings-on.”

Why don’t they get former officials like former Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile who really talks political sense? There are many former senators & former government officials, who are willing to be seen & heard by the public once again.

Former President Fidel V. Ramos and even former President Erap Estrada could be good political analysts, as compared to the hoy-puloy “political experts & analysts” they display.

With former officials as “ca-tandems,” coupled with veteran commentators who talk sense, TV & social media viewers & radio listeners would appreciate seeing & hearing their political analyses & insights; and voters would be able to decide on whom to vote for.

DR. PACIENTE CORDERO, JR.

PRRD’s two-prolonged concerns addressed to UNGA

President Rodrigo Roa Duterte took the cudgels of many nations in his recent address to the United Nations General Assembly by voicing his two-pronged concerns on COVID and CLIMATE CHANGE.

In fairness, Pres. Duterte, I have always regarded him a Leyteno because his mother is partly from Southern Leyte, did score big points before his fellow Leaders when he made a “solid point in calling for greeter action from wealthy states to combat climate change . . .”. Before this, he (Duterte) expressed his “sentiment of many nations that are struggling to procure COVID vaccines even for first doses while ‘selfish’ wealthy states prepare to administer third-dose boosters to their people.”

identifiables and senatoriables have voiced out their plans for the renewal of the ABS-CBN franchise; with the hope (and prayer) that ABS-CBN would somehow support their candidacies with “alams na.”

Meanwhile, let’s recall what Malacañang had said regarding ABS-CBN’s “pagbabalik...”

Malacanang Spox Harry Roque said “The return to broadcasting of ABS-CBN is a sole constitutional prerogative of Congress, which must originate from the House of Representatives.”

President Rodrigo Duterte on 8 February 2021 said “If you say that ABS-CBN can operate kung may ranchise na sila, no. While I am president, I will not allow the National Telecommunications Commission NTC to grant them the permit to

It has been reported by scientists that the Philippines is most vulnerable to climate change. The likely victims are fisherfolks and families composing the coastal communities who depend a lot on fishing and are threatened by rising ocean temperature and sea levels. The situation is compounded by the country’s losses of its forest cover due to illegal logging and the agri-forestry activities such as “slash-and-burn” or ‘kaingin system’ of clearing forests and grassland for small scale farming practice, very common in Region 8. The abovementioned activities pave the way to the occurrence of torrential flooding and deadly landslides. In recent years, the Philippines has been battered by unusually powerful, super tropical cyclones of the Yolanda type!

A visit to the aquatic ecosystem finds the country’s rich coral reefs, part of the famous ‘coral triangle’, rapidly depleted by pollution, destructive fishing methods and illegal harvesting, especially in the West Philippine Sea. Add to this, is the mal-practise of harvesting seaweeds, e.g. brown Sargassum species financed by Chinese scrupulous merchants. Coral reefs and seaweeds serve as spawning grounds of fish and other marine life, while seaweeds serve as food and as raw materials for rich organic fertilizer making.

If only parties concerned and addressed to by PRRD accept and play ‘Santa Claus’ to poor/third world countries that have limited resources to procure COVID-19 vaccines/medicines and highly industrialized countries reduce their carbon emission as agreed in the 2015 Paris Climate Change Agreement, he (PPRD) shall have a legacy that our future generation will be proud – that once upon a time there was once A PRESEIDENT who cared for their health/lives and fought giants in reducing global warming -an off shot of a mishandled climate program.

need to take care of. It is like a seed that has to grow until it becomes a big tree and bears fruit.

For this, we really need to have a living contact with Christ who is the fullness of God’s revelation to us. He is the substance, the content and the spirit of our faith. So, the first thing that we have to do is to look for him always in whatever thing we are thinking, saying or doing.

We need to check our attitudes and dispositions. Do we really look for him, in the manner spelled out by Christ himself, that is, with constancy and determination? Christ said: “Ask, and it shall be given you. Seek, and you shall find. Knock, and it shall be opened unto you.” (Mt 7,7)

Of course, we have to understand that a functioning faith is also the result of being actively guided by the Church which has been given full powers by Christ to keep and teach the faith with his very own authority.

I’ve been secretly stalking her since I arrived. I thought at first of her male co-teachers. But they are too young for her and would not take interest in her. Then I noticed George, their school guard, whom she would always phone, asking if he is in school or going there. Just for many reasons, usually requests for tasks to do like a cabinet to paint, or a chart to attach on the wall.

But I just dismissed this guy from my mind because, first, he is married already, and he’s just a guard. But then I started wondering why both of them would go to school like Sundays, or even at nights, when the rest are not there. But I still ignored this thought, trying to think of some more else, still banking on my trust.

In my mind, though, I’ve been entertaining some observations. This man, whenever I go there, could not look me eye-to-eye. He seems to avoid me. You know, I have a way of detecting men who are “experts” at winning ladies. And he has these traits, especially that he is a liquor drinker, and drinking buddies would usually discuss techniques like these during their drinking sprees.

The thing about your mother is, when she requests someone to do certain tasks for her, she sometimes does it flirtingly. She has been good at doing that since the time she was still single. She has done it to me countless times. To men, though, this is showing a motive. And expert men could easily manipulate and take advantage of it by making the “necessary” advances. That’s how I got her. Moreover, your mother is fond of requesting tasks for free. And this could create a problem because once these accumulate, the concerned guy could ask for “repayment”. Jokingly at first, like saying “A kiss would be good enough, Ma’am.”

If she flares up, loses her temper, and takes this as an offense, the man could stop right there. But if she will just respond with a smile, that’s an indication for the guy to pursue his plan. Kiss on the cheeks, at first, and then moving on to more advances as permission is granted. When it reaches

An Waray eyes at least 1.5 million votes to secure 3 congressional seats

The An Waray party-list group is eyeing at least 1.5 million votes in next year's balloting for it to secure three seats at the House of Representatives. The party-list bared its three nominees last Oct. 9- incumbent Rep. Florencio 'Bem' Noel (center) as its first nominee; Balangkayan Mayor Allan Contado (left) as its second nominee and Ormoc City Vice Mayor Leo Carmelo Locsin, Jr. (Photo Courtesy)

TACLOBAN CITY- The An Waray party-list is targeting at least 1.5 million votes for it to secure three seats at the House of Representatives.

Rep. Florencio 'Bem' Noel, the party-list first nominee, said that they could achieve their goal by 'maximizing' the more than 2 million votes of Eastern Visayas alone.

Aside from Noel, the party bared its nominees who include Mayor Allan Contado of Balangkayan in Eastern Samar as first nominee; Ormoc City Vice Mayor Leo Carmelo 'Toto' Locsin as its third nominee; Dr. Jason Alve as its fourth nominee and lawyer Camille Villasin as its fifth nominee.

An Waray started their foray in politics via the party-list system in 2004 and since then managed to secure even two congressional seats.

Noel said that it was always his dream to have three seats in Congress because it will entail more funds for the various programs of the An Waray.

During the 2019 elections, An Waray was able to poll more than 700,000 votes.

Mayor Contado said that aside from securing votes, their mission is to educate the voters about the party-list system.

He said that there is still low understanding of party-list among the people which results to low turnout of voters in the party-list system.

During the 2019

elections, for example he said, out of the more than 338,000 voters in Eastern Samar, only around 150,000 of them cast their votes in the party-list system.

For next year's balloting, 270 party-lists are to contest for congressional representations.

The party-list is also banking on the votes from all Waraynons not just from all around the country but from other parts of the world.

Locsin, meantime, said that he is honored to be chosen as one of the nominees of the An Waray saying that it has been in service to the people of Ormoc 'for the longest time' providing free medicine, scholarships, and livelihood opportunities.
