Protocols bar veterans to attend the low-key event

With their declining numbers, war veterans honored in this year's 77th Leyte Gulf Landings anniversary

PALO, Leyte- Leyte Governor Leopoldo Dominico Petilla and other government officials paid tribute to the veterans and their families during the 77th Leyte Gulf Landings anniversary at the MacArthur Landing Memorial Park, this town on Wednesday (October 20).

And just like last year, the ceremony adopted an 'hybrid setting' in which some parts of the commemorative event were held virtually in adherence to the protocols set by the government due to raging coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic.

Foreign dignitaries which include the ambassadors of Australia, Japan, Canada, New Zealand, Great Britain, and the charge d' affaires of the United States delivered their messages thru video recording, to include that of President Rodrigo Duterte.

The governor, in his speech, paid his tribute to the 49 living World War II veterans of the region saying the new generations and the generations to come should never forget their gallantry and heroism for the country to be liberated from the occupation of a foreign power.

Ormoc City targeting to achieve herd immunity before end of this year, Mayor Gomez says

ORMOC CITY- The city government here is targeting to achieve its herd immunity from the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) before the end of this year.

This was disclosed by Mayor Richard Gomez who said that as part of their goal, they are now into vaccinating its general populace with the 17 years and below set to follow.

Based on the data of the regional office of the Department of Health (DOH), Ormoc City has 54, 376 residents who are now fully vaccinated with COVID-19 vaccines or 30 percent of the target population.

The city has also 84, 034 residents who already received their first dose.

The city government needs to inoculate a total of 165, 156 residents to achieve its herd immunity against COVID-19.

With this data, the city has now achieved 54 percent of targeted inoculated residents, making them on top among six provinces and two independent cities in Eastern Visayas.

Ormoc City Mayor Richard Gomez is confident that they could achieve herd immunity against coronavirus disease (COVID-19) by December this year as they are now conducting their jabs activities among its general population.

With the inclusion of 12 to 17 years old in the inoculation drive, the number will increase to more than 200,000 residents that needs to be inoculated, Mayor Gomez said.

The city government had now started listing the names of teenagers who are eligible for the inoculation.

Mayor Gomez said that they are expecting more than 40,000 teenagers from the city who could receive the jabs.

The city government has also purchased about 190,000 doses of AstraZeneca vaccines, which during their early planning, the LGU decided to donate the remaining doses to its nearby towns.

But with the inclusion of age 12 to 17 in the inoculation drive, Mayor Gomez said that the plan might be set aside.

Employers, workers give mix reactions on Sec. Bello allowing business owners to fire or withhold salaries of unvax workers TACLOBAN CITY-The statement of Labor Sec. Silvestre Bello III giving employers the right to fire or withhold the salaries of their unvaccinated workers was received with mix reactions in Leyte.

For Wilson Uy, a businessman based in Leyte but is the regional governor for Eastern Visayas of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said that he favors the move of the Labor Secretary.

“I am for it considering that there are really workers who does not like to be vaccinated to the detriment of their co-workers. We all know the importance for our work force to be vaccinated for the full swing of reopening of our economy,” Uy said.

It was learned from Uy that their chamber was able to inoculate more than 600 workers who are employed to the businesses affiliated with their group.

But this stand of Sec. Bello was strongly opposed by the DBSN Farm Agri-ventures Worker Union, which is based in Albuera town, Leyte.

According to its member Rey Rodarbal, instead of pushing this policy, Bello should protect the welfare of the workers especially during this time of pandemic rather than giving the employers the right to fire or not to give them their salaries until they are vaccinated.

“He should respect the rights of the workers and the government should hasten instead its vaccination campaign so we can overcome this pandemic,” Rodarbal said.

He said that such policy could not be found as a reason under the country’s Labor Code.

“Have pity to the workers, who are mostly underpaid, as they have the right not to get the vaccine as it was not declared as man-

BARUGO, Leyte – In an effort to give a better public service to the residents of this town, the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) – Leyte Second District Engineering Office enhanced their existing multi-purpose building for use as sports venue, social gatherings, medical mission, evacuation center during calamities and other public gatherings.

According to OIC-District Engineer Leo Edward Oppura, the project has a total contract amount of P9.7-million and was completed last September 03, 2021.

The completed project involves the installation of reinforcing steel and structural concrete for columns and beams; windows; steel gates; storm drainage and downspout; ventilating equipment and electric fans; electrical works and lighting fixtures; and tile works.

Painting works were also done for its interior and exterior walls, and existing steel trusses.

Meanwhile due to the existing pandemic, this multi-purpose building is utilized by the local government unit as venue for its COVID-19 vaccinations roll-out.

Following a tragedy in a resort in Cebu River, mountain resort operators urged to hire lifeguards, watchmen

TACLOBAN CITY-Operators of river and mountain resorts here in the region were urged to employ at least two lifeguards and watchmen who will protect against potentials.

Regional Director Tirso Parian, of Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) in Eastern Visayas, reacting to the recent flash flood that swept away three individuals swimming in Tinubdan Falls, Catmon, Cebu.

He said that their office is responsible in regulating the use of water resources and constraining the negative impacts of resort operations to our environment.

In a letter addressed to municipal mayors in the region, the DENR official suggested that the life guards and watchmen “will monitor the prevailing weather condition in the locality.”

According to Parian, these personnel should be equipped with devices that will warn the visitors of impending danger and should be responsible in bringing them to safety.

“This is done by requiring them to secure water permits in compliance with Presidential Decree 1067 or the Water Code of the Philippines and comply with the provisions of Environmental Compliance Certificate,” he said.

Meanwhile, Parian maintained that resort owners “should be required to display safety reminders for their visitors in visible areas at all times.”

He added that strict monitoring of the resort’s compliance to safety measures “should be done regularly.”

“While the Department focuses on the environmental aspect of resort operations, we enjoin the local government units in securing the lives and safety of individuals amidst natural calamities such as the flash flood that occurred recently,” Parian said.

“The wrath of Mother Nature is powerful and devastating to human lives. What happened in Catmon, Cebu may also happen in our own locality. Let’s be mindful of our safety and always take extra precautions,” he added.

Centino credits Pres. Duterte's ELCAC initiative in the drop of communist strength

Army's top official wishes to see PH next President to continue anti-communist campaign

TACLOBAN CITY – The commanding general of the Philippine Army, Major Gen. Andres Centino, hope that the next President of the country will continue to implement the anti-insurgency campaign of the government thru the National Task Force to End Local Communist Armed Conflict (NTF-ELCAC).

"We have never experienced in the past, tulad ng nangyari ngayon. We are winning tulad dito, not only in Samar but elsewhere in Mindanao and Northern Luzon," M/Gen Centino, who is from Isabel, Leyte, said.

The Army official was the guest of honor during the 77th Leyte Gulf Landings Commemoration at the MacArthur Shrine National Park, this town, held last Wednesday (Oct.20).

Since the implementation of NTF-ELCAC through Executive Order 70 signed by President Rodrigo Duterte, the government has gained the upper hand on its fight against the communist group, Centino said.

This can be seen on the number of rebels who surrenders to law enforcement authorities, and supporters and sympathizers who rejected the influence of the communist group and pledge alliance with the government, he added.

"Tuloy-tuloy ang ating success kaya very effective itong ginagawa natin. So ang gusto naman natin within the term ni President (Duterte) matapos, Military officials in the region claimed that its insurgency problem has been reduced dramatically mainly due to the ELCAC implementation.

Centino said that with only eight months remaining of the term of Pres. Duterte, the military forces is working hard to significantly reduce the insurgents' influences in the province.

"For me, I am confident that we can do that, especially now that all agencies are working and helping with the army," he said.

Promises

Most campaign slogans of politicians running for various positions imply some sad realities that have been prevalent in our society. One can easily infer these from political battle cries. They are the same, old stories that previous winning candidates vowed to address but failed to resolve.

Every election period, the same promises come out, the issues serving as reasons for one to run, for people to support him. Do these politicians really want these problems to disappear, or they want them to just stay so they would keep having good alibis for endlessly seeking for elective positions?

We are fed up with having to hear the same issues that never find resolutions. Supposedly, these nagging problems would have been solved once and for all if only these political leaders would make good of their promises. But they don't. They say something but do another thing. In fact, they never say what they really intend to do once they make it to their aspired posts.

Somehow, though, we ought to thank them for disclosing to us, with their slogans, the real state of the nation. When they say that they are pro-poor, it means that our country is indeed wallowing in poverty. When they say that they are against corruption, it means that corruption is rampant. When they promise to put up infrastructure projects, it means that the same are absent. So everything they promise implies a sad reality.

But why do these harsh realities such as corruption remain? It's mainly because those who promise to resolve it are themselves the ones who promote it, directly or indirectly. How do you solve a problem that you yourself sustain?

Swimming relay

His parents kept on reminding him never to go swimming in the river with his peers alone, without a grown up companion to oversee them. But Anton just ignored them, in plain disobedience to their command.

The river nearby was so inviting—not so wide, not so deep—just enough for little boys and girls. Its water was crystal-clear, cascading upon the black pebbles and stones that Anton and his friends would sometimes use for their slingshots. But there were portions when the water was quite deep, creating a pool for people to swim in.

Although their houses were distant from one another, parted by hills and rice fields, a company of grade school boys, Anton being one of them, had gotten into the habit of swimming in that river. They did it almost every day during summer vacation, but during school days, their swimming spree had to be done on weekends, when the weather was fine.

Of the many pools the river had created along its stretch that snaked on the plain, the one with a huge tree above the riverbank was their favorite. The tree provided a shade to the pool during sunny days. But the best part as far as the boys had it was the huge root that the tree had extended underwater. Its curve formed an arc through which they could swim on their way to the water surface.

Anton and his friends one day were happily taking turns in diving into the deep, in swimming through that "hole", and in surfacing out of the water. There were five of them, all boys his age, with no

Online debt traps and Squid Game reality

The Netflix Series Squid Game is making its presence felt in pay for movies content. Hailed as one of the top selling content this year, it draws its story on Choi. The website imdb.com describes its plot very briefly yet interestingly; A survival game that has a whopping 45.6 billion-won prize at stake. A story of people who fail at life for various reasons, but suddenly receive a mysterious invitation to participate in a survival game to win more than 38 million US dollars. The conversation.com said that Squid Game is anything but your typical, saccharine, soft-glow Korean television drama. In this biting commentary on life in South Korea today, viewers are presented with a twisting, technicolor story of violence, betrayal and desperation. All of this is set around a series of macabre games in which players literally fight to the death. Despite its brutal content, the show has captivated audiences globally, becoming Netflix's top show in at least 90 countries.

But as per the article published on the conversation .com , the Squid Saga is a reflection of the hidden picture , debts . Household debt in South Korea has risen sharply in recent years to over 100% of its GDP – the highest in Asia. The top 20% of earners in the country have a net worth 166 times that of the bottom 20%, a disparity which has increased by half since 2017.

There has been rising debt relative to income and a recent hike in interest rates. This has left those who lack the resources to deal with unplanned events, such as a sudden redundancy or a family illness, in an even more precarious position.

In the Philippines, the online debt traps perpetuated by Facebook and social media platforms bleed our people dry with staggering interest rates and a 7 day repayment period. To this author it is the real Squid Game as it is the culprit o four people's stress. Take the case of one lending application called Coco Peso whose loan amount is Php 5,500 its Loan Length is 7 days, the released or disbursed amount is 3,300 , the total fee is Php 2,200. 77TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE LEYTE GULF LANDINGS

When the American forces landed in Leyte on October 20, 1944, it marked the loss of Japan's wicked grip in the Philippines and the latter's subsequent liberation from the Imperial Japanese forces during the World War II. It was on the same day that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had fulfilled his pledge of returning to the island and had surged for the reconquest of the entire Philippines. Days after his return, the largest naval battle in history has been recorded. Under the most difficult conditions during the said conflict, our Waray-Waray forefathers fought alongside the American soldiers with nothing much but gallantry and courage. Coupled with unswerving and resolute devotion, they have drawn the Filipino nation into redemption.

Seventy-seven years after the historic landing, we are again faced with a completely different but equally challenging battle. Today, we are simultaneously braving a deadly and faceless enemy brought by the COVID-19 pandemic; while suppressing the threats of insurgency and other forms of criminality that bring serious losses and cultivates fear.

Just like the Leyte Gulf warfare, we need to combat these formidable crises, hence, it is of necessity that we raise our offensive strategies and get our forces ready. To materialize such, the PNP enjoins everyone to work together in solidarity like how our veteran heroes subdue the enemy.

Today, we recognize the brave hearts and determined spirit of our forefathers. There are not many left of our World War II Veterans, but their immeasurable contributions will always influence multitude of citizens. The glory of their deeds shall rise far beyond time as it led us to our ultimate victory.

Analogous to the promise of Gen. McArthur, the men and women of Police Regional Office 8, also pledge duty to the people of Eastern Visayas. Together, we can win these battles and emerge victorious.

32 more rebels yield in Ormoc City

TACLOBAN CITY- About 32 alleged members of the New People's Army (NPA) surrendered before the authorities in Ormoc City last October 18, 2021.

The surrenderers were from Barangay Quezon Jr, Lake Danao, Hugpa, San Antonio, and Can-un-tog of the city, according to the Philippine Army's 802nd Infantry Brigade.

Colonel Noel Vestuir, 802nd IB deputy commander, said the highest ranking among the surrenderers were a former district committee member and former chairman of the Batakgang Organasyon sa Partido of the

The former rebels took their oath of allegiance to the government before Ormoc Mayor City Richard Gomez and other members during the "Serbisyo Caravan" of the Regional Task Force to End Local Communist Armed Conflict.

In a statement, Vestuir said the surrender of the 32 former rebels "was a product of the sole and painstaking efforts of the Ormoc Integrated Peace and Development Workers Associations (IPDWAs) that is composed of local rebel returnees under the leadership of Conrado Labartine."

Some 300 IPDWA members from Ormoc

City, Kananga, Albuera and Jaro, all in Leyte who also availed the Serbisyo Caravan, witnessed the oath taking ceremony.

Making wonders happen through DoSu

Mary Grace Gigor-Rondina

Making students fall in love with numbers is hard and teaching them the various mathematical formulae in the time of pandemic where physical contact is restricted is even harder.

We were all caught off guard of the current situation we are in. The class suspension we thought would merely last for a week or two has now been prolonged for more than a year and up until today we aren't certain as to when exactly this education set up would last. With this, I devised a strategy to ensure that my students are in the right track.

Project DoSu (Domino Subtraction) was initially conceptualized to cater the low Mathematics performance of Grade 7 students. This is an innovation I crafted by combining the concept of the domino game and subtraction of integers. This is basically an intervention that functions under the principle of game-based learning. Through this, players are able to practice their skill on subtraction of integers while having fun.

Albeit the mechanics of the aforesaid game is that it's played by pair, this is unswervingly doable even when students stay in the comforts of their homes.

A student can let someone in their house play with him. It could be a sibling or even parents. Each player will have a set of 15 domino tiles picked randomly.

Written on the tiles are integers. The first player puts a tile on the floor then the second player places any tile beside player one's tile in a way that only two integers will fall in line either horizontally or vertically.

The two integers are subtracted, and the results will be the score for the player who places the tile.

The game is played in 20 minutes. Each player has 30 seconds to put tiles on the floor and another 30 seconds to calculate his scores. Whoever gains the highest score will notch in the game.

Clearly, teachers can make wonders. And these wonders can happen when we use our creativity and fuel ourselves with passion to make learning possible even in the midst of global cataclysm.

New DAR-EV head visits Leyte Gov. Petilla

Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR) Eastern Visayas Regional Director Robert Anthony Yu paid a courtesy call last week on Leyte Governor Leopoldo Dominico Petilla.

The two government officials talked on how DAR and the Leyte provincial government could synchronize their programs and projects for the benefit of the Leyteños.

Among the issues they discussed was the soon-to-be distributed Leyte provincial government-owned land in San Isidro, Leyte to the former rebels.

In January 2020, President Rodrigo Roa Duterte, during his visit to the San Isidro, directed the distribution of the said

DENR hands land titles to 250 landowners in Calbayog City

"The land title in your hands is the absolute proof that you are now the rightful owner of the lands that you possess," says Tirso P. Parian, Jr., Regional Executive Director of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) in Region 8.

Director Parian made said remark during the ceremonial distribution of agricultural land titles to qualified beneficiaries from the different barangays of Calbayog City on the occasion of the annual Handog Titulo program slated every September.

The titles distributed to 250 qualified recipients covered and aggregate area of 9,240.35 hectares of agricultural land.

The distribution of agricultural land title is a momentous occasion, especially for many of the beneficiaries who have been toiling the land by their sweat and brow with no security of ownership.

But that is not the case now for Mr. Juanito Palones, a 78-year-old beneficiary of Brgy. Tinambacan, Calbayog City. He says, "I am truly thankful

Despite drop of COVID-19 cases in the region, Tiopes asks LGUs, partners to remain cautious and follow protocols

TACLOBAN CITY- Despite of the declining daily cases of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) in Eastern Visayas, the Department of Tourism (DOT) asks its partners to continue to strictly observe all the mandated health protocols.

The decreasing cases of COVID-19 in the region has made several local government units to slowly open up their tourist destinations with tourism-related establishments gearing up for possible influx of clients.

While the trend is a welcome development, this should be treated with a bit of caution, Karina Rosa Tiopes, DOT regional director, said.

“Based on recent data, the cases of COVID-19 in Eastern Visayas is in a decline. This is good news. However, it does not mean

Anton was next to Bryan in their sort of cyclical relay. From their diving rock extending from the riverbank, Anton dove into the water when his turn came. He could see Bryan on his way to the hole, and how his white shirt was hooked and got stuck among the smaller roots. Bryan struggled to free himself, but the roots never let go of his shirt.

Terrified, Anton emerged from the water. “Bryan got caught by the roots!” he shouted.

Someone ran quickly to Bryan's house in order to report what had happened to their friend. But Anton was just shaking and trembling, not just because of the cold water, but also because he could not fathom nor accept what had happened. Then he remembered his parents' constant reminder.

NPA member surrenders in Eastern Samar

TACLOBAN CITY-A 29-year old alleged member of the New People's Army(NPA) has surrendered to the 2nd Eastern Samar Police Mobile Force Company (2nd ESPMFC), following the government's intensified efforts to end local communist armed conflict in the region.

"The continuing surrender of our brothers and sisters in armed struggle is an indication that they are realizing as to what a legitimate government is. I hope that more and more of them will soon realize that," said Brigadier General Rommel Bernardo Cabagnot, regional director of the Philippine National Police, said in a statement.

Authorities identified the surrenderee as a resident of Borongan City.

when our tributes to the heroes of World War II, both alive and fallen, have been conducted mostly online. But whether physical or virtual, every commemoration gives us an opportunity to reflect on your heroism and its application in our daily lives," he said.

"Your values in wartime and peacetime guide us toward the right path even as, through the years, we may have stumbled in defending our national values," the outgoing Leyte governor added.

Tributes were given to 10 oldest living World War II veterans in the region.

The provincial government of Leyte distributed P10, 000 cash assistance to the living veterans who were not present during the low-key event due health protocols being implemented by the government aside from their health conditions.

Philippine Army Commanding General Lt.Gen Andres Centino who was the guest of honor, in his message said that the annual commemoration should serve as a tribute to the heroes of the World War II.

He added that the annual commemoration also serves as reminder that when working together as allies, countries can overcome problems like security challenge.

"We then thank our Allied countries, and even those who fought in the other side who even 77 years after still remains and have become the Philippines reliable partners for peace and instability," LTGen Centino said.

Moreover, Japanese Ambassador to the Philippines Koshikawa Kasuhiko, on his solidarity message, noted that despite the tragedy that Japanese occupation brought to the country during the great war, his country and the Philippines are now friends and close allies which he credit to the Filipino people's "forgiving heart" and the tremendous effort and dedication of leaders of the two nation.

"For this I am truly grateful and honor and all those who have helped nurture our bilateral relations," Kazuhiko said on his online message.

United States Embassy to the Philippines Charge d' Affairs Heather Variava, in her message, emphasized the close relationship of her country and the Philippines.

"As treaty allies, we will continue to stand together are treaty partners and friends for many more decades to come," she said.

The Leyte Landings commemoration is an annual historical event in Leyte to mark the arrival of Allied Forces lead by General Douglas McArthur to liberate the country from the hands of Japanese Imperial Forces that occupied the country from 1942 to 1945.

The arrival of the Allied Forces has led to the Battle of Leyte Gulf, dubbed as the biggest Naval battle in history with more than 200,000 personnel involved paving way to the defeat of Japanese Forces in the country.

Our accountability...

end of the day we can ‘harvest’ a good crop that at bottom is a matter of growth in sanctity and apostolic zeal. We should be clever enough that we do not get too entangled with the technicalities involved in the pursuit of our earthly and temporal concerns, though they have their objective value.

In this regard, I suppose having daily plans and strategies would greatly help us. We always need some structure to guide us and facilitate things. This way we minimize getting distracted along the way.

For this, we have to sharpen our sense of accountability. Yes, we should all have an abiding concern for accounting everything that we are and that we have. We just cannot go on with our life as if we are not answerable to anybody, especially to God, from whom we all come and to whom we all belong.

This is an indispensable part of our life, an unrelinquishable duty to perform. Our problem is that many still are ignorant of this duty, and of those who already know about this, the tendency is to take it for granted or to do it badly or to avoid it if given the chance.

We need to find a way of instilling this duty in everyone, starting with oneself and then encouraging others to do the same, in the context of the families, schools, parishes, offices, etc.

We always have to remember that what we are and what we have are not self-generated but are always given to us one way or another, if not by someone or by some other institution and authority, then by God ultimately.

Yes, we are always answerable to some people in varying ways and degrees. These people can be our parents, teachers, friends, neighbors, public officials, etc. In the end, we are all answerable to God who has given us everything, starting with our life and all the endowments that go with our life.

We need to smash the thought that what we are and what we have are just our own. That is a thinking that is completely false, that stands on no objective foundation. It needs to be corrected drastically and urgently.
