Gov. Mercado bars transport of lumber outside Southern Leyte

JOEY A. GABIETA

TACLOBAN CITY- The governor of Southern Leyte has issued an order prohibiting any transport of lumber outside the province, still reeling from the devastations of Typhoon 'Odette.'

The order, issued Jan. 7 of this year by Governor Damian Mercado, mandated all the local government units of the province to bar any transfer or utilization of lumber outside their respective areas.

The directive is meant to ensure that there will be enough supplies of lumber as the province is geared towards helping families rebuild their damaged or destroyed houses due to Typhoon Odette.

Northern Samar mulls of prohibiting unvaxxed to enter government offices, commercial establishments

TACLOBAN CITY - The Northern Samar Provincial Inter-Agency Task Force for the Management of Emerging Infectious Diseases (PIATF) is considering of banning unvaccinated individuals from entering government offices and commercial establishments.

This was among the many recommendations finalized as the Pre-Disaster Risk Assessment (PDRA) Core Group discussed on how to get the people vaccinated.

The decision is also part of their mitigation against the threat of the Omicron variant of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) that will possibly spread in the province.

Northern Samar is at the bottom among the six provinces of the region in terms of the number of vaccinated individuals.

Based on the record of the Department of Health, of the 472, 637 target population for inoculation in the province, it has so far achieved 43.5 percent fully vaccinated while 59.2 percent had received their first dose.

As of Jan 10, there are 34 new COVID-19 cases in Northern Samar.

Some of these COVID-19 patients are currently admitted at the Northern Samar Provincial Hospital.

Dr. Ninfa Kam, Provincial Health Officer, shared that those who were vaccinated are not experiencing severe symptoms.

"This is an affirmation that the vaccine can really prevent us from having the severe disease. And when we have no severe cases, there is less burden on our hospitals, health workers, and resources," Dr. Kam stated.

2 men arrested at Comelec checkpoints

TACLOBAN CITY— Two gun ban violators were arrested as the police established checkpoints across the region as the election period officially started on Sunday (Jan. 9).

Report from the regional headquarters of the Philippine National Police (PNP) based at Camp Ruperto Kangleon in Palo town, Leyte, said that the arrested individuals were identified as Raul Sinambong,46, married, painter and a resident of Barangay San Roque, Isabel, Leyte; and Wilmar Cabangonay, 21, single, farmer, a resident of Brgy. Bongdo, Taft, Eastern Samar.

The two were charged for violation of RA 10591 or illegal possession of firearms in relation to Comelec Resolution 10728 which imposes carrying of firearms during the election period.

Seized from the suspects were one caliber 357 'paltik' revolver loaded with six live ammunition of Caliber 5.56 mm and seven extra bullets of Cal. 5.56 mm and one .22 caliber rifle.

B/Gen. Rommel Bernardo Cabagnet, police regional director, said that he hope that the arrest of the two men will serve as an example as he vowed that they will strictly impose the gun ban policy to ensure that the conduct of balloting in the region will be safe and orderly.

"This imposes stricter security protocols relative to the rules and regulations on carrying firearms and other deadly weapons," he said.

"Eastern Visayas cops will be more unsparing to anyone caught bearing firearm or another deadly weapon without valid permits and most importantly, the certificate of authority or secured permission from the COMELEC's committee," Cabagnet added.

It was learned from the police regional director that there are 247 Comelec checkpoints, manned by the police and soldiers that have been established across the region beginning on Sunday which heralded the official election period.

The country is to hold presidential elections on May 9 this year.

Naval mayor tested positive of COVID-19

TACLOBAN CITY-The mayor of Naval town in Biliran province reported that he was tested positive of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19).

Mayor Gerard Espina said that he could have gotten the infection due to his exposure to 'multiple people' as he carried out his functions as chief executive of the town.

"The result of my RT-PCR test turned out positive for COVID-19. It could be my exposure from multiple people because of personal and official obligations," he said on a post on Jan.7.

Espina, who is running for governor of the province in this year's elections, said that he is now in isolation.

"Symptoms are mild and manageable because I'm already fully vaccinated and I will go back to work as soon as doctors give me the clearance," he added.

The sick town mayor urged his constituents to get the vaccine against COVID-19.

Espina was among the three new COVID-19 cases of the town as reported by the Department of Health

(DOH) in Eastern Visayas on Saturday (Jan.8).

The DOH has reported that for this period, the region logged 130 new cases, its highest since Eastern Visayas for more than two months.

Among the provinces which reported of new COVID-19 cases, Leyte posted the highest with 61 cases of which 15 of them

Acting normal

The way people in Eastern Visayas behave, interact with others, and observe health protocols, it seems as if the pandemic is over, and normalcy has been restored as they have now relaxed from strictly observing anti-pandemic measures.

At the height of the pandemic last year, prior to the mass vaccination of priority sectors, people were mandated to strictly observe health protocols, and authorities religiously enforced compliance. But this time, people no longer observe social distancing, frequent washing of hands, wearing of face shields, and other mandates. In fact, some people are roaming around in public places without their masks on.

Inside public transport vehicles such as jeepneys, passengers are now seated right next to one another. In business establishments, the strict enforcement of temperature check and hand sanitation have ceased so long as one has a QR Code to present. All these should have been welcome developments, they being suggestive of normalcy restoration. But with the advent of yet another variant which is said to be more contagious and vaccine resistant, these actions became rather alarming.

We can't entirely blame the people for acting defiant; they've been fed up with months and years of observing protocols. They seemingly have learned to live with the virus, in a harmonious co-existence. Fed up because all those months, they had suffered a lot—deprivation, anxiety, hunger, disease, depression—name it, they experienced it. And they can't afford to prolong their agony, hence their seeming defiance.

Let's just hope and pray that, despite its faster contagion and vaccine resistance, the feared Omicron variant will not be that fatal and deadly so that things will really get back to what they used to be. Let's pray moreover that the virus will stop from mutating so that new variants will cease from emerging, and so that people will again enjoy life as they did before.

Scam remnants

The pyramid scams that had victimized so many people before with their get-rich-fast scheme seems to linger up to now and never really disappeared into oblivion. This time, though, they seem to have transformed into something subtler.

What makes them different nowadays is that they have products to use, to promote, or to sell, and most of these are food supplement products from herbs of all sorts. With this alone, one can already spot the shrewdness of their scheme—riding on health-related issues. They know that people could be so stingy on other necessities, but when it comes to addressing the illnesses that risk their health, they could spend all their earnings.

No such products were involved in the transactions made by the numerous pyramiding companies before. All one had to do was to put in cash, as a new recruit, with the assurance that said money will multiply in the long run. But one had to be so aggressive enough to recruit other investors that will be added to his downline, otherwise, the return-of-investment would be unlikely. One could lose his investment, then, with no one else to blame but himself.

In reality, too many people had indeed lost their money in such investments though they had recruited others to join the scheme, which turned out to be a big scam. Again, they themselves were to blame for that loss—they joined rather late. Had they joined earlier, they could have recovered their investment and earned a lot. In short, it was just the earliest members, and the founder of the scheme, that had enriched themselves in the process.

Sad but many of these investors just did not run after their losses, perhaps due partly to their embar-

All about RAFTI-OTT 'Agas Program'

If there is a nature-oriented activity worth emulating, one should know about the AGAS PROGRAM spearheaded by the Ramon Aboitiz Foundation, Inc. One To Tree (RAFTI-OTT) based in Cebu. This laudable program (Agas is Cebuano term for "flow"), aims to increase watershed forest cover and enhances local biodiversity through its reforestation efforts in turn addressing some of the most pressing impacts of forest denudation."

A laudable program that serves the interest of mankind is worth supporting – the reason why organizations like the Coca Cola Foundation (CCF) have no qualms in getting involved in. The hefty amount of the CCF Grant totaling $184,801 is intended to fund watershed conservation activities. In the case of the Agas Program, they will plant and monitor 200,000 native seedlings of mixed timber and fruit tree species. Cebu has identified the Balamban municipality's Kotikot-Lunasan Watershed Forest Reserve, part of the CCPI or Central Cebu Protected Landscape – which play a key role for Cebu's water and generation and supply purposes.

The Agas Program RAFTI-OTT needs to coordinate with "local stakeholders and communities on reforestation efforts and provision of alternative livelihood." The Agas Program will use their experience and expertise in reforestation and conservation activities, e.g. achieving 80% survival rate for native tree growing.

To think that the annual loses of the country in forest cover, the estimated at 47,000 hectares is very alarming, indeed! The more destructive effect of forest loss are flooding, droughts, less protection from typhoons, and potable water supply.

The Agas Program advocacy could be replicated elsewhere in the Philippines where watershed/sources could be protected and conserved to insure sustainable supply of potable water among others. The case of Leyte Province, specific is the Municipality of Burauen endowed with two sources of potable 'sweet' water. The LGU, in cooperation with the DENR could put up a reforestation project within its spring water sources in Hapunan and Tambis. If protected and developed, water could be a source of revenue for the growing population of Burawanons to sustain their socio-economic needs.

Commentary

FR. ROY CIMAGALA

Be always ready for eternity

IF we have to have integrity in our Christian life, we should realize that we are meant for eternal life with God in heaven. We therefore should be always prepared for it, ready also to leave everything behind in this world which is meant only as a means and pathway in our journey toward our ultimate destination. While we have to immerse ourselves in the things of this world, we should not allow ourselves to get entangled with them.

We are somehow reminded of all these truths of our faith in that gospel episode where Christ somehow described some terrible things that would happen just before end of the world. (cfr. Lk 21,5-11)

"The days will come when there will not be left a stone upon another stone that will not be thrown down," he said. And he added, "When you hear of wars and insurrections, do not be terrified; for such things must happen first, but it will not immediately be the end...Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be powerful earthquakes, famines, and plagues from place to place; and awesome sights and mighty signs will come from the sky."

So, we are actually amply warned about what to expect as the end of time approaches. We just have to be ready and prepared for our definitive eternal life with God in heaven. In a sense, we should always be eternity-ready, prepared to leave everything behind, avoiding unnecessary complications due to some undue attachments and entanglements we can have with the things of this world.

In this regard, we should always realize that of all the things that we have to take care of, it should be our spiritual life, our relation with God and with others that should be given precedence always. We should try to see to it that our spiritual life is vibrant and healthy, fruitful and productive, seeing to it that it enjoys the highest level of Christian integrity that we, with God's grace, can attain.

We should not be afraid to be aware always of this see Be always /page 8 ...

by the Coalition of the Commons, Mr. Domingo showed Columnist Mauro Samonte the official results of the top Three (3) contenders in the 2016 presidential elections as follows --

Mayor Rodrigo Duterte 16,601,997 votes
DILG Secretary Mar Roxas 9,978,175 votes
Sen. Grace Poe Llamanzares 9,100,991 votes

THAT the “Comelec Mafia’s” 5,810,000 “reserved votes” were not enough to overturn the huge votes for President Duterte, per the above-mentioned official Comelec results?

THAT with the huge avalanche of votes for the then Mayor Duterte, there was no way the “Comelec Mafia” could cheat him out of victory?

THAT Mr. Domingo estimated President Rodrigo Duterte actually garnered 21 million votes. but with 5.8 million votes (expectedly) deducted from him by the “Comelec Mafia,” he ended up with “just” the above-mentioned Sixteen Million plus votes?

NOW, WHAT IF ?
Taking note of the above results in the 2016 presidential elections, if Senator Grace

Poe Llamanzares did not run for president, since it was rumored at that time that no less than President Noynoy Aquino somehow encouraged her to file her Certificate of Candidacy ...

If her 9,100,991 votes, or at least majority were added to DILG Secretary Mar Roxas’ 9,978,175, Mar Roxas would have been our president with 19,079,166 votes !

... Instead of President Rodrigo Duterte who had the following “deflated 16,601,997 votes” after supposedly passing through the “Comelec Mafia” (as revealed by Vicente Domingo) and the Smartmatic “Magic.”

Based on the report of the regional office of the Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA) around 10 million trees were toppled, of which 3.9 million were classified as beyond recovery, in Southern Leyte and parts of Leyte due to the typhoon.

The same order of Gov. Mercado mandated the police to establish checkpoints that no business establishments or individuals could sneak out lumber from the province.

lawyer Arnaldo Escobar, the regional director of the Department of Interior and Local Government (DILG) said.

“Marami pong dalang serbisyo ang national government para ibigay sa mga barangay sa buong munisipyo ng Limasawa,” he added.

Grace Sugbong, the regional director of the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD), announced that ators from the province would be given priority in cutting the fallen trees into lumber.

Around 120,797 houses were damaged in Southern Leyte wherein 44,562 were totally destroyed.

Meantime, the PCA said that it will provide assistance to coconut farmers who were affected by Odette’s devastation.

The PCA said that about 82,358 coconut farmers in typhoon-hit areas in the region were affected by the typhoon.

It will also distribute 70 chainsaws in the province for the clearing of the fallen trees.(with report ROEL T. AMAZONA) rassment as stupid recruits. Charged to experience, they would say. Negligible for those with meager investments, but for those who put in much, that was such a devastating experience. Could have been akin to getting bankrupt in business, or losing in a gambling spree.

Fast forward now. We don’t hear of those pyramid scams nowadays, more so that the government had intervened and declared them illegal. But the metamorphosis seems to have occurred, and what we have now are something more, again, subtle. The get-rich-fast formula remains, but here come these companies that offer similar promises though equipped as they are now with products as fronts. No more pure-cash transactions: they have products to divert your attention to.

But if we will trace closely, the same scheme is in place. They would recruit a potential member, make him invest a given amount considered as purchase money for the products, make him sell those products or use them himself, and make him recruit other investors as well either as product users or mere sellers. In the process, huge earnings are promised, though the idea is the same—recruit other investors or one would earn nothing.

These schemes are all over social media nowadays. They would attract people with high income using only the gadgets and all, but in the process, only the earlier members in the upline are earning much at the expense of the later members. Still a scam by any standard.

the agency had already provided over P15 million food and non-food assistance to the island residents, and financial assistance under the Assistance to Individual in Crisis Situation.

“Ang ayudang ito ay hindi makaka-abot sa Limasawa kung wala ang effort at support ng mga government agencies,” she said.

“Hindi po tayo tumitigil, tinitingnan po natin kung ano ang pwedeng tulong pa or other response na pwedeng maibigay Dito po sa Limasawa,” Subong added.

She added that their office together with the livelihood and shelter cluster of the regional council, are also discussing now what other assistance they can provide to the residents

For her part, agriculture regional director Angel Enriquez said that whatever livelihood their office can offer will be provided to Limasawa.

“I will make a report to the secretary to prioritize in Southern Leyte this island and we wanted to build back agriculture kasi alam namin from the devastation marami ng tumutulong na agency. Whatever livelihood we can offer, you have my commitment,” she said.

Limasawa town Mayor Melchor Petracorta was thankful for the visit of the regional officials and was overwhelmed by the assurance of the agency officials.

“Marami salamat. Even sa mga padala, wala akong reklamo. Kaya nga... kasi sa akin...hindi ko sana gusto manghingi nang – magma-ka-awa, pero naawa ako sa mga tao, pero ang gobyer-no natin nandiyan para sa amin, maraming salamat” an emotional town mayor said.

A total of 1, 433 houses from the six villages of Limasawa were totally damaged by Odette while 169 were partially damaged.

Some of those who lost their houses are still staying in evacuation centers while others had constructed temporary shelters using tarpaulins and other materials available on the island.

Gerry Sinoc, who is the village chairman of Cabulihan also expressed his gratitude for the support extended to them by the government.

He declared that practically all the houses in their village were destroyed due to the ferocity of the typhoon.

Aside from housing materials, Sinoc, who is also the town president of the association of barangay chairmen, also appeals that they be given assistance for their livelihood.

“Sa amin talaga, mada-mi ang duon lang sa dagat nabubuhay. Yung mga nabubuhay sa dagat wala na ngayong sasakyan na gagamitin pandagat. Meron dyan mga butas, giba, kaya ang tulong na ganyan pampaayus at saka gamit sa panghanap-buhay pangisda, napakalak-ing tulong kung mayroon kaming makukuha galing sa mga concern agencies natin,” he said.
